$250 Million Bond Issue Bill Faces Senate

Extension of Tax To Year 2000 Seen As Aid to Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The blockbuster $250-million bond issue to provide new educational buildings comes up for a vote in the Ohio Senate today.

The proposal, with apparent backing of the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes, would not increase taxes, but simply extend the present fifth penny of the cigarette tax until about the year 2000.

An agreement, announced last week in a statement from Rhodes' office, would spread proceeds of the big bond issue all over Ohio.

The House, meanwhile, will take up a bill providing statewide voter registration. Election officials, headed by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, long have sought statewide registration to promote election efficiency and discourage possible fraud.

Voter registration is now required countywide in slightly less than one-fourth of Ohio's 88 counties and partial registration in somewhat less than one-half. If passed by the House, the measure will go to the Senate.

The new developments came against a background of hot and heavy action Tuesday in which:

—The Senate passed, 19-13, and sent to the House a bill to exempt non-profit hospitals from damage suits as a result of the acts of their employees.

—The House passed and sent to the House, 22-9, a bill to permit Ohioans to shoot ducks, geese and coot on Sunday, adding perhaps another six days to the Ohio season.

—The House completed enactment of an emergency bill, effective as soon as Gov. Rhodes signs it, embodying his administration's plan for industrial development, including creation of a hoped-for 200,000 new jobs for Ohioans.

The hospital-liability bill was the most hotly debated bill of the day and, in the end, had far less support than similar measures which passed in 1959 and 1961. In both of those sessions, former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle vetoed the measure.

There was only one dissenting vote when the House adopted Senate amendments, including the emergency clause, to finalize legislative action on one of Rhodes' biggest campaign issues — new jobs.

The program provides for a department of development and a financing commission with authority to issue revenue bonds to help finance industrial growth.

With only 12 dissenting votes, the House passed and sent to the Senate a sundry claims bill just short of $1 million. Such a bill is before the legislature every session because the state cannot be sued for its wrongful acts or those of its agents.

Wife Slays Noted Envoy

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Police reported today the American wife of Denmark's former ambassador to the United States, Henrik Kauffmann, slit her husband's throat and then took her own life with the same bread knife.

They described the murder as a "merciful killing."

Kauffmann, police said, had an inoperable cancer and "his wife killed him to save him from further suffering. Then she committed suicide having left a number of letters to relatives explaining why she was going to do it."

Mrs. Kauffmann was the former Charlotte MacDougall of Beaufort, S.C., daughter of Rear Adm. William D. MacDougall. She was 63 and Kauffmann was 74.

Kauffmann, one of the best-known men in Denmark, gained fame when, as an envoy to Washington, he refused to take orders from the Copenhagen authorities cooperating with the Nazi invaders in 1940. He served as the rallying force for other Danish diplomats throughout the free world.

Methodists Told New Member Total Is 'Pitifully Few'

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio Methodist leader has urged ministers and laymen in his denomination to make every effort to get more new members for their church.

Dr. Austin R. Whitmore, church superintendent in the Toledo District, made the plea Tuesday in a "state of the church" address at the Ohio Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

"We have more rooms, better equipment, more pews with cushions, air conditioning, sound systems, but fewer classrooms, receding enrollments and a pitiful few more new members," he told more than 3,000 ministers and laymen.

Dr. Whitmore blamed an emphasis upon what he called the material and a lack of devotion to the spiritual and educational for not getting as church members those never before affiliated with a church.

Council To Study Ordinance on Sales

An ordinance designed to regulate distress merchandise sales in Circleville was introduced in City Council last night, then immediately referred to committee for study.

The proposed measure pertains to going-out-of-business liquidation and similar type sales. Such an ordinance has been advocated by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and local merchants.

The merchant group contends that appropriate regulations are needed to control such sale practices conducted here in the past and at the present time. Spokesmen claim that firms are prone to use "going-out-of-business" sales as a means of bringing in outside merchandise over and beyond current inventories at the time the sales started. They noted that many consumers have complained of this procedure.

Provisions of the ordinance, as prepared by Solicitor Kenneth Robbins, would regulate the distress sales, require licenses and fix related fees and provide penalties for violations.

THE MEASURE was held for study on the recommendation of Councilman D. J. Carpenter. Questioning the constitutionality of such an ordinance, he asserted that all members of Council should take a close look at provisions listed in the seven pages of legislation.

Copies of the ordinance were to be distributed to all Councilmen, with the suggestion that the measure be submitted for further action at the next meeting. Chamber of Commerce and merchant representatives will be requested to attend this session.

Robbins said to his knowledge a law of this nature has not been tested outside of a local court. He added that if a legal precedent has been set, he is not aware of it.

The solicitor also commented that the city may not presently have the personnel to enforce such an ordinance. He said indications are qualified persons would have to be hired in certain instances.

Flash Flood Hits Cambridge

7 Inches of Rain Fall In 24-Hour Period

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — A flash flood boosted by more than seven inches of rain in 24 hours poured out of the Cambridge area hills early today isolating scores of motorists, home and business places in the lowlands. There were no injuries reported.

About 4½ feet of water from raging Crooked Creek covered U.S. 40 three miles west of here. Most roads west, southwest and northwest of Cambridge were closed temporarily.

The Ohio Highway Patrol had halted through traffic on U.S. 40 at Zanesville, 24 miles to the west, because of the flood emergency.

By 9 a. m. the water had quit rising and in most places was starting to recede.

U.S. 40 was inundated about two miles east of New Concord. A ditch there, usually dry at this time of year, became a torrent, covering a quarter-mile section of the east-west artery. At least one car was overturned, trucks were stalled and their cabs flooded, and some houses in the area were evacuated. New Concord is nine miles west of Cambridge.

Motorists caught in the deluge took to the roofs of their cars and patrons of the Wilshire Motel and the Midway restaurant west of Cambridge also were evacuated. At the Midway, patrons and employees took refuge on the roof before rowboats arrived.

Authorities could give no accurate estimate of the number of persons marooned, but Cambridge police said they number several hundred.

The Westview section of Cambridge was hit by small landslides and many trees were washed out of the hillsides and onto roads. Walls Creek, which runs through southern and western sections of the city, was out of its banks but had not caused as much damage as Crooked Creek several miles to the west.

The floods started flashing about 12:30 a. m. just after Cambridge was buffeted by hours of intermittent electrical storms and downpours. The U.S. weather observer at the Cambridge State Hospital said he measured 7.18 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending early Wednesday.

University Desegregation Is Given Nod

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge today barred defiant Gov. George C. Wallace from his avowed doorway stand against enrollment of Negroes at the University of Alabama.

The injunction by U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne prohibits Wallace or anyone in concert with him from physically interfering with court ordered desegregation of the state institution.

The order does not ban Wallace from the campus.

Wallace's office in Montgomery said the governor's "stand is the same as it has always been. It has not changed."

In clear language, the Alabama-born jurist spelled out federal supremacy and swept away any vestige of validity in the state sovereignty power claimed by Wallace.

"The governor of a sovereign state has no authority to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States," Lynne wrote in an opinion which ended in a moving appeal to Alabama's people.

The 56-year-old jurist took a dramatic departure from the stiff formality of court procedure to express a prayer that all Alabamians "will join in the resolution that law and order will be maintained."

With an air of pathos and concern, Lynne wrote: "I love the people of Alabama."

"I know that many of both races are troubled and, like Jonah of old, are 'angry even unto death' as the result of distortions of affairs within this state, practiced in the name of sensationalism."

Lynne did not elaborate.

The judge said it was clear that unless an injunction was issued, irreparable injury would result "from obstruction to the lawful

Remarkable Boy, 10, Now 36 Inches Tall

MACON, Ga. (AP)—For seven years, Flint Hunter did not grow at all.

Since last September, he has grown three inches.

That makes him a three-footer at 10 and he is still growing.

Flint is in the fifth grade but he is about the size of a small first-grader.

His growth halted after serious surgery at 3. A malignant tumor and his pituitary gland had to be removed from the base of his brain.

He surprised his doctors by recovering. With his pituitary gone, his growth was a problem until recent treatment restored it.

Flint, from babyhood on, has been somewhat remarkable. He walked at 7 months. A month later his mother had to get him off the roof of the house where he had climbed.

He never was in the first grade. He started school in the second grade.

Kennedy Predicts Win over Chaos

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Kennedy said today the surest way to bring war is to embrace the idea of a nuclear stalemate—to believe that war is too terrible to happen.

In this fashion, Kennedy began a four-day Western trip on a somber note. However, in the same address prepared for the fifth graduating class of the U.S. Air Force Academy Kennedy wound up with a brighter prophecy.

"We believe," he said, "in the ability of man to triumph over the terrible forces he has created."

We believe in the dignity of man and his eternal right to be free. And we believe, finally, that we are going to prevail."

The academy was the first stop on a fast-paced tour of four Western states that will give Kennedy an up-to-date look at space age defense plus a chance to do some old-fashioned politicking.

In his academy speech, Kennedy acknowledged that "new weapons of massive retaliation" have their greatest value because they tend to discourage potential war makers. But he said national security will not be achieved "simply by piling up bigger stocks of bombs or burying our missiles under bigger piles of concrete."

He noted that "human failures and follies have too often been the rule instead of the exception" in an imperfect world.

Then he declared: "The surest way to bring on the war that cannot happen" is to sit back and assure ourselves that it cannot happen."

As things stand, he said, "our national security, in a period of rapid change, will depend on constant reappraisal of accepted doctrine, on alertness to new developments, on imagination and resourcefulness and new ideas."

The President emphasized that Air Force Academy graduates must be more than military commanders because "military policy and power cannot and must not be separated from political and diplomatic decisions."

In last October's Cuba crisis he said, political and psychological motives and implications were equal in importance to "the military motives and implications of that reckless attempt to place offensive missiles on the island of Cuba."

Voice of America To Use Ohio Gear

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Voice of America plans to take over operations of short wave transmitters at nearby Bethany, run since World War II by Crosley Broadcasting Co., under contract. A Crosley spokesman said Tuesday the target date for change is Oct. 1, and the transfer was part of general streamlining of broadcast operations by Voice of America.

He said the change would have no effect on Crosley since the company operated the transmitters at cost, and estimated 18 employees at the Bethany facility will be able to transfer to government service, staying in their current jobs.

Thousands Pay Last Homage At Bier of Pope John 23rd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The everyday people so dear to Pope John XXIII came by the tens of thousands today to see their beloved pontiff in death.

The mourners filed between wooden barriers through St. Peter's Square — where many times they had come to see the smiling Pope at his window — and entered the cool basilica to move past his lifeless figure.

Nearly 100 persons waited through the night in the square. By 8:07 a.m., when the central doors of the basilica opened, a line of 30 abreast stretched across the immense square and far down the Via Della Conciliazione.

Pope John lay in red pontifical robes on a catafalque covered in red damask and framed by 16 candles. His face was serene, showing no mark of the four days of suffering that ended with his death Monday night.

On his head was a golden bishop's miter, for the Pope is both bishop of Rome and supreme pontiff of the world's half billion Catholics. The miter reminded Romans that they had lost their bishop in losing their Pope.

The body will lie in state for public viewing until Thursday night. After a private burial service Thursday evening it will be placed in a crypt in a niche in front of the tomb of Pope Pius XI, in the right lateral nave of the grotto under the main floor of the basilica.

There was no indication, however, that this would be the final resting place.

The official nine-day mourning period will begin Friday. It may be interrupted for Sunday and for the feast of Corpus Christi on June 13. The last three days will be marked by solemn Mass celebrated by cardinals. Envoys from many nations are expected to attend the final funeral services.

Informed sources in Washington said President Kennedy has designated Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to represent him.

As the faithful of Rome filed past the catafalque, the 50 or more members of the College of Cardinals in foreign lands set out for the Vatican to attend the funeral rites and to begin meeting between June 18 and June 12 to elect Pope John's successor.

L'Osservatore Romano, presumably acting on previous instructions from Pope John, began publishing previously unreleased statements and writings of the dead pontiff.

Of the Ecumenical Council he said: "Will He (God) allow me to see it through? Be he blessed. Will he not? Then from heaven where I hope—am certain—that divine mercy will take me, I shall see his happy ending."

Relatives Still Hold Hope For Victims in Alaska Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Anxious wives, parents and other relatives had waited for some hopeful word on the fate of 101 persons aboard a military-chartered DC7 airliner which crashed into the sea off the coast of British Columbia.

But messages Tuesday from ships at the scene indicated there was no hope of survivors.

Debris and bits of bodies were picked up from the squally North Pacific and the rescue ships radioed that "evidence indicated an impact of great force."

Among those on board the four engine propeller driven Northwest Orient Airlines plane were 13 women, including two stewardesses, and 20 children ranging from 10 months to the late teens. Besides a crew of six, the plane carried 58 servicemen 22 military dependents, and 15 other civilians — employees of the Defense Department and their families.

They had gathered at McChord Air Force Base, Wash., from all parts of the country for Monday's flight to Anchorage, Alaska.

They included a mother and her four daughters, a Red Cross supervisor, a former school teacher recalled to duty, a soldier,

Warren Bank Hit By Pair of Bandits

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Two men robbed a branch of the Second National Bank of Warren today, getting an undetermined amount of money from three tellers' cages.

The state highway patrol said one of two cars used in the getaway was found a short time after the holdup.

One customer and four employees were in the bank branch, located on U. S. 422 just inside the city limits.

The holdup men were described as Negroes, wearing white handkerchief masks.

Newlywed Graduation Candidate Dies in Lake
CELINA, Ohio (AP)—A recently married student, due to receive a degree in education Friday from Ohio State University, drowned in Grand Lake St. Marys here Tuesday afternoon.

The victim was 22-year-old Roger Lee Coate of Celina, who had been fishing on the lake bank with his wife, Martha, 19. They were married March 16.

Seven family groups apparently were wiped out or left with only one surviving parent as a result of the crash.

Passengers included the wife and four children of M. Sgt. Michael P. Almose, attached to the Army's Alaska Support Command; the wife and four children of Airman 1. C. Robert D. Scott, stationed at Elmendorf AFB, Anchorage; and the wife and two children of Airman Q. C. Robert E. Smith also stationed at Elmendorf.

Scott's wife, Madeline, of Panama City, Fla., was en route with their children to join him.

Also aboard the plane were S. Sgt. Joseph I. Whipple, 36, an Army medical corpsman for 18 years; his wife and two teen-age daughters; Army SP5 Frank B. Mann, 23, his wife and 10-month-old daughter; William G. Partington, a civilian working for the Air Force, his wife and three sons; and A. J. CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — A flash flood boosted by more than seven inches of rain in 24 hours poured out of the Cambridge area hills early today isolating scores of motorists, home and business places in the lowlands. There were no injuries reported.

About 4 1/2 feet of water from raging Crooked Creek covered U.S. 40 three miles west of here. Most roads west, southwest and northwest of Cambridge were closed temporarily.

The Ohio Highway Patrol had halted through traffic on U.S. 40 at Zanesville, 24 miles to the west, because of the flood emergency.

By 9 a. m. the water had quit rising and in most places was starting to recede.

U.S. 40 was inundated about two miles east of New Concord. A ditch there, usually dry at this time of year, became a torrent, covering a quarter-mile section of the east-west artery. At least one car was overturned, trucks were stalled and their cabs flooded, and some houses in the area were evacuated. New Concord is nine miles west of Cambridge.

Motorists caught in the deluge took to the roofs of their cars and patrons of the Wilshire Hotel and the Midway restaurant west of Cambridge also were evacuated. At the Midway, patrons and employees took refuge on the roof before rowboats arrived.

Authorities could give no accurate estimate of the number of persons marooned, but Cambridge police said they number several hundred.

The Westview section of Cambridge was hit by small landslides and many trees were washed out of the hillsides and onto roads. Willis Creek, which runs through southern and western sections of the city, was out of its banks but had not caused as much damage as Crooked Creek several miles to the west.

The floods started flashing about 12:30 a. m. just after Cambridge was buffeted by hours of intermittent electrical storms and downpours. The U.S. weather observer at the Cambridge State Hospital said he measured 7.18 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending early Wednesday.

GOP Divided On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators discussed civil rights problems for two hours today in a closed party conference without reaching any decisions.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference, told newsmen another meeting had been scheduled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, who requested the conference had urged his GOP colleagues to "go down the line for civil rights legislation in this session of Congress."

But comments of senators emerging from the conference pointed up that the Republicans, like the Democrats, are divided.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona told newsmen he saw no need for additional civil rights measures, although he added this didn't necessarily mean he would oppose any bill that might be proposed.

University Desegregation Is Given Nod

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge today barred defiant Gov. George C. Wallace from his avowed doorway stand against enrollment of Negroes at the University of Alabama.

The injunction by U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne prohibits Wallace or anyone in concert with him from physically interfering with court ordered desegregation of the state institution.

The order does not ban Wallace from the campus.

Wallace's office in Montgomery said the governor's "stand is the same as it has always been. It has not changed."

In clear language, the Alabama-born jurist spelled out federal supremacy and swept away any vestige of validity in the state sovereignty power claimed by Wallace.

"The governor of a sovereign state has no authority to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States," Lynne wrote in an opinion which ended in a moving appeal to Alabama's people.

The 56-year-old jurist took a dramatic departure from the stiff formality of court procedure to express a prayer that all Alabamians "will join in the resolution that law and order will be maintained."

With an air of pathos and concern, Lynne wrote: "I love the people of Alabama."

"I know that many of both races are troubled and, like Jonah of old, are 'angry even unto death' as the result of distortions of affairs within this state, practiced in the name of sensationalism."

Lynne did not elaborate. The judge said it was clear that unless an injunction was issued, irreparable injury would result "from obstruction to the lawful (Continued on Page 2)

Remarkable Boy, 10, Now 36 Inches Tall

MACON, Ga. (AP)—For seven years, Flint Hunter did not grow at all.

Since last September, he has grown three inches.

That makes him a three-footer at 10 and he is still growing.

Flint is in the fifth grade but he is about the size of a small first grader.

His growth halted after serious surgery at 3. A malignant tumor and his pituitary gland had to be removed from the base of his brain.

He surprised his doctors by recovering. With his pituitary gone, his growth was a problem until recent treatment restored it.

Flint, from babyhood on, has been somewhat remarkable. He walked at 7 months. A month later his mother had to get him off the roof of the house where he had climbed.

He never was in the first grade. He started school in the second grade.

Flint is a bug on science, chemistry, biology, and electronics. He takes motors and engines apart and can put them back together.

His teachers say he is a prospect for scholarship attainment at the genius level. Flint says he "rather quit school and go to work. He wants his dad to finance him in the construction business."

Buggies Are Too Light To Trip Traffic Signals
NEW HOLLAND, Pa. (AP)—This small borough in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country is having trouble with its traffic lights.

Horse-drawn buggies driven by Amish farmers aren't heavy enough to trip treadles which make the lights change.

The borough council was told Tuesday night that on occasions a single buggy has backed up traffic for hundreds of yards. The council said it will look into the purchase of other devices to trip the lights.

Kennedy Predicts Win over Chaos

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Kennedy said today the surest way to bring war is to embrace the idea of a nuclear stalemate—to believe that war is too terrible to happen.

In this fashion, Kennedy began a four-day Western trip on a somber note. However, in the same address prepared for the fifth graduating class of the U.S. Air Force Academy Kennedy would end with a brighter prophecy.

"We believe," he said, "in the ability of man to triumph over the terrible forces he has created."

We believe in the dignity of man and his eternal right to be free. And we believe, finally, that we are going to prevail."

The academy was the first stop on a fast-paced tour of four Western states that will give Kennedy an up-to-date look at space age defense plus a chance to do some old-fashioned politicking.

In his academy speech, Kennedy acknowledged that "new weapons of massive retaliation" have their greatest value because they tend to discourage potential war makers. But he said national security will not be achieved "simply by piling up bigger stocks of bombs or burying our missiles under bigger piles of concrete."

He noted that "human failures and follies have too often been the rule instead of the exception" in an imperfect world.

Then he declared: "The surest way to bring on the war that cannot happen" is to sit back and assure ourselves that it cannot happen."

As things stand, he said, "our national security, in a period of rapid change, will depend on constant reappraisal of accepted doctrine, on alertness to new developments, on imagination and resourcefulness and new ideas."

The President emphasized that Air Force Academy graduates must be more than military commanders because "military policy and power cannot and must not be separated from political and diplomatic decisions."

In last October's Cuba crisis he said, political and psychological motives and implications were equal in importance to "the military motives and implications of that reckless attempt to place offensive missiles on the island of Cuba."

Voice of America To Use Ohio Gear

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Voice of America plans to take over operations of short wave transmitters at nearby Bethany, run since World War II by Crosley Broadcasting Co., under contract. A Crosley spokesman said Tuesday the target date for change is Oct. 1, and the transfer was part of general streamlining of broadcast operations by Voice of America.

He said the change would have no effect on Crosley since the company operated the transmitters at cost, and estimated 18 employees at the Bethany facility will be able to transfer to government service, staying in their current jobs.

Thousands Pay Last Homage At Bier of Pope John 23rd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The everyday people so dear to Pope John XXIII came by the tens of thousands today to see their beloved pontiff in death.

The mourners filed between wooden barriers through St. Peter's Square — where many times they had come to see the smiling Pope at his window — and entered the cool basilica to move past his lifeless figure.

Nearly 100 persons waited through the night in the square. By 8:07 a. m., when the central doors of the basilica opened, a line of 30 abreast stretched across the immense square and far down the Via Della Conciliazione.

Pope John lay in red pontifical robes on a catafalque covered in red damask and framed by 16 candles. His face was serene, showing no mark of the four days of suffering that ended with his death Monday night.

On his head was a golden bishop's miter, for the Pope is both bishop of Rome and supreme pontiff of the world's half billion Catholics. The miter reminded Romans that they had lost their bishop in losing their Pope.

The body will be in state for public viewing until Thursday night. After a private burial service Thursday evening it will be placed in a crypt in a niche in front of the tomb of Pope Pius XI, in the right lateral nave of the basilica.

There was no indication, however, that this would be the final resting place.

The official nine-day mourning period will begin Friday. It may be interrupted for Sunday and for the feast of Corpus Christi on June 13. The last three days will be marked by solemn Mass celebrated by cardinals. Envoys from many nations are expected to attend the final funeral services.

Informed sources in Washington said President Kennedy has designated Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to represent him.

As the faithful of Rome filed past the catafalque, the 50 or more members of the College of Cardinals in foreign lands set out for the Vatican to attend the funeral rites and to begin meeting in June 18 and June 12 to elect Pope John's successor.

L'Osservatore Romano, presumably acting on previous instructions from Pope John, began publishing previously unreleased statements and writings of the dead pontiff.

Of the Ecumenical Council he said: "Will He (God) allow me to see it through? He be blessed. Will he not? Then from heaven where I hope — am certain — that divine mercy will take me, I shall see its happy ending."

Giant Firm Loses Debate On Word Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A small insurance firm won a court victory over Nationwide Insurance Co., Columbus based giant, in a battle over use of "a million dollar" word.

The word is "insurance," defined as assurance and, in turn, insurance.

Nationwide used security in a million-dollar advertising campaign and applied for U. S. patent office registration of the word as a service mark.

Securanc Service Inc., an insurance firm with agencies in Gibsonburg and Woodville, Sandusky County, took court action to prevent Nationwide from using the word security.

Lyle P. Younker and Herbert L. Howard of the smaller firm claimed exclusive use under Ohio laws protecting corporate names, trade marks and service names.

Common pleas court dismissed the suit but an appellate court granted an injunction, limited to Sandusky County. On appeal Supreme Court extended the injunction to apply statewide and returned the case to the trial court for further proceedings. The high court split, 4-2 on the decision.

Records showed that Younker first used "insurance" in 1955 to advertise his insurance business. Younker consolidated with Howard in the insurance business in 1956 under the name Securanc Service, Inc.

They registered "insurance" with the secretary of state as a trade mark in May 1960.

Stock Market Prices Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and steels paced a stock market recovery in active trading early this afternoon.

Stocks rallied after an irregular start.

Most of the motor stocks advanced, Chrysler gaining more than a point following news that new car sales in May were a record for the month.

Steels followed along, posting a string of moderate gains.

Aluminums, chemicals, farm implements, and coppers also were mostly higher.

Tobacco and drugs declined.

Some of the electronics were active and higher while others sagged.

Failing to reflect the overall advance early this afternoon, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .1, rails off .1, and utilities off .3.

Reports from the unharmed Italian ship indicated the Japanese vessel carried a crew of between 25 and 35 men. Fifteen were rescued and taken aboard the Italian ship, which is due in Portland, Maine, Saturday.

Subdivision Plat Accepted By Circleville Councilmen

Circleville Council last night approved a subdivision plat in the Nicholas - Brink Drive area, submitted by the White Development Co.

The plat, containing 17 lots, will be known as Sherwood Subdivision No. 2. The ordinance, as accepted by the council, also confirms the dedication of streets and alleys within the area.

Acceptance of the plat will become official as soon as a performance bond, set at $12,500, is placed in the hands of the Council clerk. The bond, deemed adequate by Service Director Ronald Sharrett, will be delivered this week, according to developer Jack White.

The Sherwood plat was approved Monday night by the City Planning and Zoning Commission. It was forwarded for Council action last night.

AGREEMENT to accept the subdivision was made following a 15-minute recess to study a map description of the area. Approval was made on a 6-0 vote. Councilman John Jenkins was absent.

A second ordinance, one that had a direct bearing on the subdivision measure and precipitated a lengthy discussion, called for the appropriation of $975 to clean and repair McHenry Ditch from Nicholas Drive to the John Himrod property. Approval was given following considerable debate.

During the course of discussion it was learned that the city contemplates permitting the White firm to erect a storm sewer line from its subdivision to McHenry Ditch. Solicitor Kenneth Robbins, noting that nothing was specified in the subdivision ordinance regarding the sewer line, questioned the city's authority to permit drainage into the ditch.

Robbins hinted that such action may lead to future problems. White replied that his drainage program has met with the approval of neighboring property owners, relative to McHenry Ditch.

A third ordinance enacted provided for the levying of special assessments for the construction of sanitary sewers to serve the City View area.

Cost of the project was set at $30,589.39. A description of the lots and land to be assessed were listed in a resolution adopted by Council on Jan. 16, 1962.

Ag Secretary, Historian Disagree on Hunger Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and British historian Arnold J. Toynbee disagreed today on whether science and technology could free the world from hunger and want.

In speeches prepared for the World Food Congress, Freeman said the world was at the door of abundance because of agricultural advances, but Toynbee declared science and technology could not do the job without worldwide birth control.

The congress, attended by some 1,200 delegates from more than 100 countries, moved into its second session to encourage the world's political, economic, social, religious, and educational leaders to make a broad international attack in hunger. The congress, which will meet through June 18 is sponsored by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Stressing the need for action, Freeman said it is doubtful whether "the community of nations inhabiting this earth can long exist half hungry and half well-fed."

"Science and technology have now—in this generation—opened the door to a potential for abundance for all," he said.

Toynbee, while praising science and technology, questioned their ability to increase food supplies indefinitely without aid of population controls.

"In the long run the campaign cannot be won unless the planet's millions of wives and husbands voluntarily decide to regulate the number of human births," he said.

"We have been godlike in our planned breeding of our domesticated plants and animals, but we have been rabidlike in our unplanned breeding of ourselves," the historian said.

orders of this court and the consequent impairment of the judicial process of the United States."

Wallace earlier had said he wanted to stand alone to confront the students.

"We don't want anyone at the University of Alabama except those who are authorized to be there," he told an educational fraternity.

Wallace announced he would go on statewide television tonight and Sunday to urge people to keep away from the campus.

The Army moved support units of trucks and other vehicles into Ft. McClellan, about 60 miles to the northeast, where 2,000 federal troops are on standby for possible use in racial troubles.

Armed with a federal court order, a second Negro said he would join James H. Meredith today as a student at the University of Mississippi. School officials said no trouble was anticipated with the arrival of Cleve McDowell, 21, an honor student. Some federal troops still are on duty at the university, left there since the bloody rioting last fall when Meredith entered.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize said McDowell is qualified for the university's law school and issued an order directing school officials to enroll him.

Many Businessmen in Dixie Ready To Start Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has urged 100 business leaders to move faster in breaking down racial barriers in Southern stores, restaurants and theaters.

The businessmen were described in general as ready to "go home and start" desegregating their firms — many of them chains with branches throughout the South.

But a few of the businessmen who sat down with Kennedy at the White House Tuesday counseled him to go slow on legislation that would compel integration of businesses dealing in goods that move in interstate commerce.

The President expected to ask Congress next week for just such a measure, was advised by two or three of the executives to give voluntary programs a little more time before resorting to compulsion.

But administration leaders, fearful new Negro demonstrations could erupt into a race riot, stress that the mood of the times is urgent.

Secretary of Labor Willard W. Wirtz, spoke of the need for urgent action as he shook a stick at labor unions who refuse to admit Negroes.

He pledged that he would, under orders of the President, use the full federal authority in cracking down on discrimination within unions.

If there is not some real progress soon, Negro leaders held out the possibility of mass protest demonstrations in the nation's capital similar to those which led to violence recently in Philadelphia.

At the closed White House meeting were business leaders from 25 states and the District of Columbia—most of them executives of chain stores, theaters, motels and restaurants operating in the South.

With the President were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Many of the businessmen had attended another recent session in which the attorney general urged voluntary integration of public accommodations.

Milton Elsbeger, president of Drug Fair Stores, Alexandria Va., said most of the businessmen who commented on Kennedy's appeal voiced the general view that they would get started in the next few days at integrating their firms.

Repeatedly, accordingly to the participants, the suggestion was made that business integrate with labor unions to avoid arousing strong local opposition.

Five Motorists Pay Fines to Municipal Court

A total of five motorists paid fines to Circleville Municipal Court.

The remaining motorists waived court hearings and paid the fines levied. All were cited by the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Lyle Bainter, 23, 474 Half Ave., $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Charles B. Kenyon, 20, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Russell Toland, 25, Lockbourne; $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle equipped with a defective muffler.

Paul Griffith, 37, Columbus; $13 and costs for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Union Pays $48.31 Bill For Statehouse Cleanup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio AFL-CIO, which sponsored a demonstration at the statehouse May 15, has sent the state a check for $48.31 to pay for picking up signs and posters left behind by the demonstrators.

Elmer F. Cope, secretary-treasurer of the labor organization, mailed the check Tuesday to Public Workers Director Alfred G. Glenow. Cope contacted Glenow immediately after the demonstration—against pending legislation on unemployment and workmen's compensation—and offered to pay for the pick-up. Glenow notified him last week that the bill was $48.31.

Tricky Figures

In every report about the U. S. economy, hopeful statistics are hedged with those showing that no matter how many more persons are working, the unemployment rate never seems to drop 5 per cent.

How valid are these estimates (for that is all they are)? Meaningful figures of employees who gather and calculate the statistics, but rather of the system which fails to sort out the "hard core" unemployment.

Recently a study by the University of Massachusetts of unemployment in North Adams, Mass., showed that the "hard core" of unemployment in that "depressed area" probably was less than 15 per cent of what everyone thought it was. Another study in New Bedford, Mass., showed about 11 per cent of the total claiming jobless benefits to be actually unemployed and unemployable.

Who are the others? They are persons who are not really interested in obtaining jobs — students; housewives who still are classified as unemployed and job-hunting but aren't working at it much; persons between jobs; transients, and the like.

All of which suggests that unemployment statistics should be approached with caution. They're almost as tricky to take hold of as mercury and slippery as wet soap to use.

Booming Garden Market

A sizable percentage of garden enthusiasts, a recent survey indicates, really dislike gardening. Why do they go in for it?

They are not driven to it by their wives, but by search for status, competition with neighbors, and a desire for self-expression, the survey finds.

Regardless of all that, they are contributing mightily to the current boom of the "outdoor living" market. For tools, seeds, plants, fertilizers, insecticides and similar items they spent an estimated $2.6 billion last year, more than double the 1950 figure. And the end is not yet.

Demand for power mowers will zoom to 4.3 million this year, manufacturers predict. Sales of pesticides and improved lawn sprinklers continue high. So things should continue to grow and need cutting.

And the "outdoor living" market will continue to boom regardless of motivations.

Can't Cramp Ingenuity

By John Chamberlain

The worst thing about Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman's plans for rigid control of this country's wheat production is that it would have forbidden farmers to exercise any ingenuity. Extended over the whole range of agriculture, strict controls of both acreage plantings and sales would soon bring a dead halt to the technological farm revolution that has made the U. S. the best-fed nation in history.

This columnist believes that the attempt to control acreage allotments is self-defeating in the long run. But an individual farmer can live with acreage controls and still feel that he has some incentive to do the best job he can with what he actually does plant. The farm journals are filled with stories of how Jim So-and-So, limited to X number of acres by the girl down at the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, managed to increase his yield per acre by planting a new disease-resistant variety of seed, or by adding this or that trace of mineral to his fertilizer, or by using better insect and weed control.

The challenge to get the most out of the least space has made practically all of American agriculture intensive. There has been a devastating war on ticks and mites, on weeds, on grasshoppers and greenbugs. The fun of the game has been exhilarating to many farmers who have put up with acreage allotments with the sure knowledge that they could exercise their ingenuity in spite of the "ASC office."

True enough, the farmer's ingenuity creates terrible social headaches in the form of surpluses. But whenever a dictatorial bureaucracy tries to take the free play of individualism out of farming, a different sort of social headache results. The farmer who has no incentive to get more from what he is doing becomes apathetic. And, one fine day, the bureaucracy that is charged with regimenting agriculture finds that it has a famine on its hands.

This has happened in every country that has tried to make the farmer an order-taker instead of an order-giver. It happened in Russia when the ancient serfdom of the Czar was re-established in the guise of the collective farm. The kulaks, anticipating the loss of any free play for their ingenuity, killed and ate their cows, and the Soviets have suffered from a meat shortage ever since. In Yugoslavia, Dictator Tito, who had a better knowledge of the peasantry than happened to be the case with the Russian Politburo, did not go to the extreme of trying to kill off individual peasant agriculture. In acting thus he has roused the ire of China's Mao Tse-tung, the holier-than-thou Marxist of Peking. But Tito has been sitting pretty with his own peasants, who have gone on producing.

The case of Red China is the most recent example of what happens when you try to turn the farmer into a 100 per cent order-taker. As Valentin Chu tells the story of Mao Tse-tung's agricultural heavy-handedness in a sprightly book called "Ta Ta, Tan Tan: The Inside Story of Communist China," the experience of the Chinese in attempting to regiment the peasants would be comical if it were not so tragic in the starvation that has resulted. In 1958 Mao pronounced it the "year of the miracle," and reports were issued that collectivized discipline had resulted in getting eight million pounds of cabbage from a single acre, to say nothing of 12,175 apples from a single apple tree in Manchuria. A year later, despite Peking's manipulation of statistics, Mao's government had to admit that great shortages, unheard of even in China, had occurred in wheat, edible oil, vegetables, meat tea, silk, cotton, hemp and tobacco.

To save the day, the Red Chinese have had to restore some freedom to the peasant to make his own decisions. Refugees in Hong Kong report that Chinese peasant families are now permitted to have their own garden plots, on which they can raise food both for themselves and for sale.

If Secretary Freeman had succeeded in turning the American wheat farmer into a complete order-taker, it would not have resulted in starvation. But farmers were afraid that strict regimentation in one crop would lead to strict controls in other things, particularly in cattle. With strict regimentation a meat shortage could occur even within the space of a single year.

MOST EMBARRASSING—Julie Engels just couldn't help giggling when her 18-month-old brother, David, lost his towel in the bathroom of their home in Pluckemin, N. J., and their mother didn't mind the water dripping on the bathroom floor because David was standing on a new, absorbent wrethane foam bath mat. (Central Press)

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A WOMAN WHO weighs something over 300 pounds had an interesting experience while flying by jet from Denver to New York recently. Shortly after the take-off a stewardess tapped her on the shoulder and invited her to move from the tourist section to a seat in the first-class compartment. "I'm flattered," said the woman, "but wonder why you've singled me out for this V.I.P. treatment." "Madam," explained the stewardess candidly, "we have a weight problem."

Joe McCarthy tells of two robbers who made a gigantic haul in a bank stick-up. Looking at the huge pile of green backs on a table in their hideaway, one robber suggested, "Instead of counting all this money, let's wait till morning and look at the newspapers to see how much we got!"

Another Joe McCarthy story: A family group, having dinner at a Broadway restaurant, reached the dessert course. The 10-year-old daughter said to the waiter, "What kind of pastry do you have?" Then, before he could answer, she added, "And, by the way, what is pastry?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I was severely burned as a child. Can the disfiguring scar on my face be removed?

E. T. R. Illinois

Dear Miss R.: Plastic surgeons have devised many operations for the cosmetic improvement of scars. The results are most gratifying not only surgically but psychologically.

Your own physician can evaluate your problem and refer you to a plastic surgeon.

Why do they say that peanuts are not good for small children?

Mrs. Y. T. Texas

Dear Mrs. T.: Peanuts are nutritious and tasty, but whole peanuts can be dangerous to young children. Sometimes a portion of the nut, or the whole nut, may be inhaled into the bronchial tubes where it sets up a severe irritation and inflammation. It then must be removed by a technique called bronchoscopy.

Can hormone injections cause cancer?

I. D. R. Kansas

Dear I. D. R.: No. Hormones, like any other medication, are chosen carefully and with deliberation by your doctor. Specific hormones are given when the body is deficient in them. Under proper supervision, hormones are beneficial, not dangerous.

Are the larynx and the esophagus the same?

Mrs. O. G. N. Nevada

Dear Mrs. N.: No. There are two separate tubes in the back of the throat. The larynx is the tube that carries air that we breathe into the lungs. The esophagus is the tube that carries food into the stomach.

Is electrolysis dangerous for the removal of excess hair? How is it done?

B. S. Indiana

Dear Miss S.: When electrolysis is performed by technically-trained persons it is not dangerous.

A thin needle is inserted into the hair follicle. A painless but definitely felt electric current is passed through the needle. This destroys the base of the hair follicle, which is the area responsible for its growth. Then the hair is extracted.

In most instances, the hair does not re-grow.

When something blows in your eye, what is the best way of removing it?

Mrs. E. S. California

Dear Mrs. S.: Most important, do not rub your eye.

If the "foreign body" does not work its way out by nature's own device of tearing, gently pull the lower eyelid down. If the speck is visible, wipe it out with a moist corner of a handkerchief or tissue.

If you cannot see it in the lower lid, grasp the upper lid by the lashes, pull it outward and downward over the lower lid.

If the pain and annoyance persist, see your doctor at once.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Interest rates are rising on short-term loans. The increases stretch all along the line from the U.S. Treasury to lenders to business.

The question is whether this is a passing phase caused by special situations or a definite move by the money managers to tighten up on credit.

They could be acting to brake any incipient speculative flurry that some see starting in the stock markets. Or they could be bolstering the American dollar against foreign pressures stronger than Washington has officially admitted.

Also doubtlessly affecting money management thinking is the switch of late from fears of a recession to belief that business activity is due to expand at a faster rate.

The Treasury this week is paying more on its 91-day bills than it has in three years. The latest rate of 3.028 per cent thus swings higher than the Federal Reserve discount rate of 3 per cent charged on loans to its member banks. This is the basic rate on which banks scale their own charges to borrowers.

If the Treasury stays higher, pressure for an increase in the discount rate will be strong. This in turn would affect bank charges, in spite of the ample funds most of them have available for lending to business, to home builders, to seekers of consumer credit.

At the same time the Treasury was finding it must pay more for 91-day loans, private borrowers were finding they must pay more, too. Several sales finance companies raised by one-eighth percentage point the rates on promissory notes they issue and sell to investors. They use the borrowed money for loans to consumers.

Similar increases were made by commercial paper dealers. They sell four- to six-month notes for various industrial concerns and some finance companies.

Bankers' acceptances also went up by the same amount. These are drafts guaranteed by a bank. Usually they are issued to finance international trade.

As a sideline to all these increases perhaps prices of bank stocks generally advanced. Higher interest rates aid them to increase their earnings.

The Treasury probably wasn't too upset at having to pay a bit more on its weekly offerings of 91-day bills. The money managers have been striving for several years to keep yields on short-term loans high enough to discourage the outflow of hot money to foreign shores.

This highly volatile money is the sum idle at any given time and in search of quick in-and-out investment opportunities at the highest return. The flow of hot money to Europe in the past when yields there were much more attractive than here was one of the biggest items in the U.S. deficit of international payments.

The deficit, lasting now for five years, has put pressure on the value of the dollar in world markets, and has from time to time caused sizable loss of the U.S. Treasury's gold reserves.

The rise in short-term rates here could be temporary. And it could be confined to that market with out affecting the long-term market where funds available for investment are still reported ample.

But if the interest rate climb reflects a change in policy by the money managers toward tighter credit, the effect could spread in time to the general economy—to borrowing for speculation, for business expansion, for home or commercial building, for building and carrying inventories.

Most Wall Street observers are betting today that moderately tighter credit is the new goal.

Carved Own Illustrious Niche

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It is the function of the "fill-in man" to hold a situation intact until a better man can be found to take his place.

Usually he takes the place of a departed predecessor who has left shoes behind which most people feel are too big to fit anyone left on the scene.

Thus arises the need of "the fill-in man," the temporary occupant of greatness. You find him in every area of human activity.

Nobody expects the "fill-in man" to reach the heights of his predecessor. But now and then, to the surprise of the world, it happens.

He carves his own niche in fame with certain bold and illustrious actions.

Such a man would seem to be Pope John XXIII.

It may seem presumptuous in the hour of his loss to speak of him as a "fill-in man." But no disrespect is intended. He was so regarded by many at the time of his election to the papacy.

Largely, perhaps, it was a matter of his age. How could the College of Cardinals elect a man nearly 77, after many ballots, to such an exalted post? Particularly after the long reign of scholarly

Pius XII, who had won renown as "The Pope of Peace?"

But though many in the chancelleries of power might have regarded him as an interim Pope, John XXIII did not behave like one. He moved swiftly to meet the challenges of change.

With a mind poised toward heaven, he spoke of himself as "a servant of the servants of God," and in memorable human ways did all he could to make man more humane to himself.

He struck offensive mentions of other faiths—Jewish and Moslem—from his Church's rituals.

He recalled men's duties to each other across the boundaries of human greed, saying "All riches which come from the earth should be put at the disposal of all, according to God and justice."

Earthly goods must be better distributed.

He caught the yearnings of all mankind—regardless of creed—as probably did no other Pope in modern times. In less than five short years he became a great bridge to religious tolerance—and potentially unity.

As he lay dying with his elderly sister mopping his feverish brow, a group of 10 persons here—only one of whom was Catholic—listened to news broadcasts.

"He was a truly good man," said one of the group, and it wasn't a Catholic. That feeling was typical.

The "fill-in man" had done a superb job. Humanity has lost a great champion, and the problem of the Catholic Church now is—to find such another.

The challenge to get the most out of the least space has made practically all of American agriculture intensive. There has been a devastating war on ticks and mites, on weeds, on grasshoppers and greenbugs. The fun of the game has been exhilarating to many farmers who have put up with acreage allotments with the sure knowledge that they could exercise their ingenuity in spite of the "ASC office."

True enough, the farmer's ingenuity creates terrible social headaches in the form of surpluses. But whenever a dictatorial bureaucracy tries to take the free play of individualism out of farming, a different sort of social headache results. The farmer who has no incentive to get more from what he is doing becomes apathetic. And, one fine day, the bureaucracy that is charged with regimenting agriculture finds that it has a famine on its hands.

This has happened in every country that has tried to make the farmer an order-taker instead of an order-giver. It happened in Russia when the ancient serfdom of the Czars was re-established in the guise of the collective farm. The kulaks, anticipating the loss of any free play for their ingenuity, killed and ate their cows, and the Soviets have suffered from a meat shortage ever since. In Yugoslavia, Dictator Tito, who had a better knowledge of the peasantry than happened to be the case with the Russian Politburo, did not go to the extreme of trying to kill off individual peasant agriculture. In acting thus he has roused the ire of China's Mao Tse-tung, the holier-than-thou Marxist of Peking. But Tito has been sitting pretty with his own peasants, who have gone on producing.

The case of Red China is the most recent example of what happens when you try to turn the farmer into a 100 per cent order-taker. As Valentin Chu tells the story of Mao Tse-tung's agricultural heavy-handedness in a sprightly book called "Ta Ta, Tan Tan: The Inside Story of Communist China," the experience of the Chinese in attempting to regiment the peasants would be comical if it were not so tragic in the starvation that has resulted. In 1958 Mao pronounced it the "year of the miracle," and reports were issued that collectivization had resulted in getting eight million pounds of cabbage from a single acre, to say nothing of 12,175 apples from a single apple tree in Manchuria. A year later, despite Peking's manipulation of statistics, Mao's government had to admit that great shortages, unheard of even in China, had occurred in wheat, edible oil, vegetables, meat tea, silk, cotton, hemp and tobacco.

To save the day, the Red Chinese have had to restore some freedom to the peasant to make his own decisions. Refugees in Hong Kong report that Chinese peasant families are now permitted to have their own garden plots, on which they can raise food both for themselves and for sale.

If Secretary Freeman had succeeded in turning the American wheat farmer into a complete order-taker, it would not have resulted in starvation. But farmers were afraid that strict regimentation in one crop would lead to strict controls in other things, particularly in cattle. With strict regimentation a meat shortage could occur even within the space of a single year.

MOST EMBARRASSING—Julie Engels just couldn't help giggling when her 18-month-old brother, David, lost his towel in the bathroom of their home in Pluckemin, N. J., and their mother didn't mind the water dripping on the bathroom floor because David was standing on a new, absorbent urethane foam bath mat. (Central Press)

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A WOMAN WHO weighs something over 300 pounds had an interesting experience while flying by jet from Denver to New York recently. Shortly after the take-off a stewardess tapped her on the shoulder and invited her to move from the tourist section to a seat in the first-class compartment. "I'm flattered," said the woman, "but wonder why you've singled me out for this V.I.P. treatment." "Madam," explained the stewardess candidly, "we have a weight problem."

Joe McCarthy tells of two robbers who made a gigantic haul in a bank stick-up. Looking at the huge pile of green backs on a table in their hideaway, one robber suggested, "Instead of counting all this money, let's wait till morning and look at the newspapers to see how much we got!"

Another Joe McCarthy story: A family group, having dinner at a Broadway restaurant, reached the dessert course. The 10-year-old daughter said to the waiter, "What kind of pastry do you have?" Then, before he could answer, she added, "And, by the way, what IS pastry?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I was severely burned as a child. Can the disfiguring scar on my face be removed?

E. T. R., Illinois

Dear Miss R.: Plastic surgeons have devised many operations for the cosmetic improvement of scars. The results are most gratifying not only surgically but psychologically.

Your own physician can evaluate your problem and refer you to a plastic surgeon.

Why do they say that peanuts are not good for small children?

Mrs. Y. T., Texas

Dear Mrs. T.: Peanuts are nutritious and tasty, but whole peanuts can be dangerous to young children. Sometimes a portion of the nut, or the whole nut, may be inhaled into the bronchial tubes where it sets up a severe irritation and inflammation. It then must be removed by a technique called bronchoscopy.

Can hormone injections cause cancer?

I. D. R., Kansas

Dear I. D. R.: No. Hormones, like any other medication, are chosen carefully and with deliberation by your doctor. Specific hormones are given when the body is deficient in them. Under proper supervision, hormones are beneficial, not dangerous.

Are the larynx and the esophagus the same?

Mrs. O. G. N., Nevada

Dear Mrs. N.: No. There are two separate tubes in the back of the throat. The larynx is the tube that carries air that we breathe into the lungs. The esophagus is the tube that carries food into the stomach.

Is electrolysis dangerous for the removal of excess hair? How is it done?

B. S., Indiana

Dear Miss S.: When electrolysis is performed by technically-trained persons it is not dangerous.

A thin needle is inserted into the hair follicle. A painless but definitely felt electric current is passed through the needle. This destroys the base of the hair follicle, which is the area responsible for its growth. Then the hair is extracted.

In most instances, the hair does not re-grow.

When something blows in your eye, what is the best way of removing it?

Mrs. E. S., California

Dear Mrs. S.: Most important, do not rub your eye.

If the "foreign body" does not work its way out by nature's own device of tearing, gently pull the lower eyelid down. If the speck is visible, wipe it out with a moist corner of a handkerchief or tissue.

If you cannot see it in the lower lid, grasp the upper lid by the lashes, pull it outward and downward over the lower lid.

If the pain and annoyance persist, see your doctor at once.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Interest rates are rising on short-term loans. The increases stretch all along the line from the U.S. Treasury to lenders to business.

The question is whether this is a passing phase caused by special situations or a definite move by the money managers to tighten up on credit.

They could be acting to brake any incipient speculative flurry that some see starting in the stock markets. Or they could be bolstering the American dollar against foreign pressures stronger than Washington has officially admitted.

Also doubtlessly affecting money management thinking is the switch of late from fears of a recession to belief that business activity is due to expand at a faster rate.

The Treasury this week is paying more on its 91-day bills than it has in three years. The latest rate of 3.028 per cent thus swings higher than the Federal Reserve discount rate of 3 per cent charged on loans to its member banks. This is the basic rate on which banks scale their own charges to borrowers.

If the Treasury rate stays higher, pressure for an increase in the discount rate will be strong. This in turn would affect bank charges, in spite of the ample funds most of them have available for lending to business, to home builders, to seekers of consumer credit.

At the same time the Treasury was finding it must pay more for 91-day loans, private borrowers were finding they must pay more, too. Several sales finance companies raised by one-eighth percentage point the rates on promissory notes they issue and sell to investors. They use the borrowed money for loans to consumers.

Similar increases were made by commercial paper dealers. They sell four- to six-month notes for various industrial concerns and some finance companies.

Bankers' acceptances also went up by the same amount. These are drafts guaranteed by a bank. Usually they are issued to finance international trade.

As a sideline to all these increases perhaps prices of bank stocks generally advanced. Higher interest rates aid them to increase their earnings.

The Treasury probably wasn't too upset at having to pay a bit more on its weekly offerings of 91-day bills. The money managers have been striving for several years to keep yields on short-term loans high enough to discourage the outflow of hot money to foreign shores.

This highly volatile money is the sum idle at any given time and in search of quick in-and-out investment opportunities at the highest return. The flow of hot money to Europe in the past when yields there were much more attractive than here was one of the biggest items in the U.S. deficit of international payments.

The deficit, lasting now for five years, has put pressure on the value of the dollar in world markets, and has from time to time caused sizable loss of the U.S. Treasury's gold reserves.

The rise in short-term rates here could be temporary. And it could be confined to that market without affecting the long-term market where funds available for investment are still reported ample.

But if the interest rate climb reflects a change in policy by the money managers toward tighter credit, the effect could spread in time to the general economy—to borrowing for speculation, for business expansion, for home or commercial building, for building and carrying inventories.

Most Wall Street observers are betting today that moderately tighter credit is the new goal.

Carved Own Illustrious Niche

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It is the function of the "fill-in man" to hold a situation intact until a better man can be found to take his place.

Usually he takes the place of a departed predecessor who has left shoes behind which most people feel are too big to fit anyone left on the scene.

Thus arises the need of "the fill-in man," the temporary occupant of greatness. You find him in every area of human activity.

Nobody expects the "fill-in man" to reach the heights of his predecessor. But now and then, to the surprise of the world, it happens.

He carves his own niche in fame with certain bold and illustrious actions.

Such a man would seem to be Pope John XXIII.

It may seem presumptuous in the hour of his loss to speak of him as a "fill-in man." But no disrespect is intended. He was so regarded by many at the time of his election to the papacy.

Largely, perhaps, it was a matter of his age. How could the College of Cardinals elect a man nearly 77, after many ballots, to such an exalted post? Particularly after the long reign of scholarly

Pius XII, who had won renown as "The Pope of Peace?"

But though many in the chancelleries of power might have regarded him as an interim Pope, John XXIII did not behave like one. He moved swiftly to meet the challenges of change.

With a mind poised toward heaven, he spoke of himself as "a servant of the servants of God," and in memorable human ways did all he could to make man more humane to himself.

He struck offensive mentions of other faiths—Jewish and Moslem—from his Church's rituals.

He recalled men's duties to each other across the boundaries of human greed, saying "All riches which come from the earth should be put at the disposal of all, according to God and justice."

Earthly goods must be better distributed."

He caught the yearnings of all mankind—regardless of creed—as probably did no other Pope in modern times. In less than five short years he became a great bridge to religious tolerance—and potentially unity.

As he lay dying with his elderly sister mopping his feverish brow, a group of 10 persons here—only one of whom was Catholic—listened to news broadcasts.

"He was a truly good man," said one of the group, and it wasn't a Catholic. That feeling was typical.

The "fill-in man" had done a superb job. Humanity has lost a great champion, and the problem of the Catholic Church now is—to find such another.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

He's Jealous of Violet

DEAR ABBY: I am 45 years old and have been married almost 15 years. My wife is a good cook, a good housekeeper and a good woman. She has one bad fault. She will spend lots of time watering her African violets, her one passion in life, but she never asks me if I want a drink of water. I am well able to get myself a drink of water, but it would be nice if she would offer it to me once in a while. Am I wrong?

MR. R.T.K.

DEAR MR. K.: You are the first man I have ever heard from who is jealous of an African violet! Don't suppress your anger. Emulate the competition. Turn purple and say, "I'm thirsty. Darling... will you water me, too?" And don't be surprised if she tells you you are already all wet... or simply to dry up!

DEAR ABBY: I like to work in my shop some evenings after supper. I do so almost every evening. My problem is this: A neighbor girl, 16, keeps coming into my shop to watch me work. I enjoy her company, but my wife is afraid the neighbors will get the wrong idea. What can I do to keep everybody happy?

MAN WITH A HOBBY
DEAR MAN: No one can keep "everybody" happy. But for a start, tell Sweet 16 (sweetly) that she should spend more time on her homework and less on your shop work. P.S. Tell "wifey" to grow up, too.

DEAR ABBY: Is it correct for a wedding to be held in the groom's church? The bride's church is a small one in a rural section, and has no place for the reception. The groom's church is very large and has a huge basement where receptions are held. Please print your answer because about 300 people are directly involved.

Dear Abby: He's Jealous of Violet

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 45 years old and have been married almost 15 years. My wife is a good cook, a good housekeeper and a good woman. She has one bad fault. She will spend lots of time watering her African violets, her one passion in life, but she never asks me if I want a drink of water. I am well able to get myself a drink of water, but it would be nice if she would offer it to me once in a while. Am I wrong?

MR. R.T.K.
DEAR MR. K.: You are the first man I have ever heard from who is jealous of an African violet! Don't suppress your anger. Emulate the competition. Turn purple and say, "I'm thirsty, Darling... will you water me, too?" And don't be surprised if she tells you you are already all wet... or simply to dry up!

DEAR ABBY: I like to work in my shop some evenings after supper. I do so almost every evening. My problem is this: A neighbor girl, 16, keeps coming into my shop to watch me work. I enjoy her company, but my wife is afraid the neighbors will get the wrong idea. What can I do to keep everybody happy?

MAN WITH A HOBBY
DEAR MAN: No one can keep "everybody happy". But for a start, tell Sweet 16 (sweetly) that she should spend more time on her homework and less on your shop work. P.S. Tell "wifey" to grow up, too.

DEAR ABBY: Is it correct for a wedding to be held in the groom's church? The bride's church is a small one in a rural section, and has no place for the reception. The groom's church is very large and has a huge basement where receptions are held. Please print your answer because about 300 people are directly involved.

Building of a Pontiff

Various Qualities Required of Pope

EDITOR'S NOTE — Bennet M. Bolton has been an AP Vatican correspondent for the past two years. In the following article, — second of three, on the life of Pope John XXIII, Bolton brings out some of the personal qualities which endeared the 21st pontiff to Catholics around the world.

By BENNET M. BOLTON
VATICAN CITY (AP) — In a matter of weeks the beehive crown of the Roman Catholic Church will be placed on the head of a new Pope.

The world's half billion Roman Catholics will have a new spiritual ruler possessing the titles of vicar of Jesus Christ, bishop of Rome, supreme pontiff of the universal Church, patriarch of the West, primate of Italy, archbishop of the Roman Province and sovereign of the state of Vatican City.

What qualities should a man bring to this office that Roman Catholics consider the bridge between heaven and earth?

Pope John XXIII brought to the papacy the experiences of both diplomat and pastor, gained from 28 years abroad as an apostolic legate and five years in the important see of patriarch of Venice.

The north Italian farm family from which he came was very much aware, when he celebrated his first mass in August 1904, that Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli was now Father Roncalli.

The newly ordained priest was sent in 1904 to Bergamo, near his beloved birthplace of Sotto il Monte, as secretary to a remarkable bishop.

Father Roncalli's 10 years with Bishop Giacomo Radini-Tedeschi of Bergamo, while simultaneously serving as a professor at the Diocesan seminary, did much to form the independent cast of mind that marked his papal reign.

Pope Benedict XV called Father Roncalli to Rome in 1921 to reorganize the Italian Society for the Propagation of the Faith, a nationwide mission-supporting activity that reached down to parish level. Father Roncalli wrote a new constitution for the society. He was made a monsignor.

Four years later Msgr. Roncalli became a titular bishop. That same year, 1925, Pope Pius XI sent him as a Vatican diplomat to Sofia, Bulgaria. The job went so well that he was raised in five years from apostolic visitor in Bulgaria to apostolic delegate there.

In 1935 he was made a titular archbishop and became apostolic delegate to Turkey and Greece.

In recognition of his diplomatic skill he was appointed papal nuncio to France in December 1944. It was a delicate post. Relations between France and the Vatican were strained. Many wartime French resistance leaders were angry because the previous nuncio had lived in Vichy, capital of defeated France.

Archbishop Roncalli mended the situation so swiftly that in three months France sent philosopher Jacques Maritain to the Vatican to resume normal diplomatic relations.

Archbishop Roncalli's days in France came to an end in January 1953, when Pope Pius XII made him a cardinal and three days later named him patriarch of Venice. It was his first assignment inside Italy in 38 years.

During his long years away from the Vatican, Angelo Roncalli found time to read extensively from the writings of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, the Vatican secretary of state who became Pope Pius XII in 1939.

Those writings and discourses, applying Roman Catholic teaching to problems across the range of modern politics and sociology, were absorbed by a man who later, as Pope, would shape them with his own individual outlook into concrete actions.

President Vincent Auriol of France gave Angelo Roncalli his red cardinal's biretta, following old custom, on Jan. 12, 1953. Three months later Auriol conferred on the departing cardinal the award of commander of the French Legion of Honor.

The people of Venice grew to love their patriarch during his five years there. He visited every parish in his jurisdiction, built 30 new parishes, ordered a new seminary and expanded countless projects and programs.

Next: How the Pope broke precedents.

Building of a Pontiff

Various Qualities Required of Pope

EDITOR'S NOTE — Bennet M. Bolton has been an AP Vatican correspondent for the past two years. In the following article, — second of three, on the life of Pope John XXIII, Bolton brings out some of the personal qualities which endeared the 261st pontiff to Catholics around the world.

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In a matter of weeks the beehive crown of the Roman Catholic Church will be placed on the head of a new Pope.

The world's half billion Roman Catholics will have a new spiritual ruler possessing the titles of vicar of Jesus Christ, bishop of Rome, supreme pontiff of the universal Church, patriarch of the West, primate of Italy, archbishop of the Roman Province and sovereign of the state of Vatican City.

What qualities should a man bring to this office that Roman Catholics consider the bridge between heaven and earth?

Pope John XXIII brought to the papacy the experiences of both diplomat and pastor, gained from 28 years abroad as an apostolic legate and five years in the important see of patriarch of Venice.

The north Italian farm family from which he came was very much aware, when he celebrated his first mass in August 1904, that Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli was now Father Roncalli.

The newly ordained priest was sent in 1904 to Bergamo, near his beloved birthplace of Sotto il Monte, as secretary to a remarkable bishop.

Father Roncalli's 10 years with Bishop Giacomo Radini-Tedeschi of Bergamo, while simultaneously serving as a professor at the Diocesan seminary, did much to form the independent cast of mind that marked his papal reign.

Pope Benedict XV called Father Roncalli to Rome in 1921 to reorganize the Italian Society for the Propagation of the Faith, a nationwide mission-supporting activity that reached down to parish level. Father Roncalli wrote a new constitution for the society. He was made a monsignor.

Four years later Msgr. Roncalli became a titular bishop. That same year, 1925, Pope Pius XI sent him as a Vatican diplomat to Sofia, Bulgaria. The job went so well that he was raised in five years from apostolic visitor in Bulgaria to apostolic delegate there.

In 1935 he was made a titular archbishop and became apostolic delegate to Turkey and Greece.

In recognition of his diplomatic skill he was appointed papal nuncio to France in December 1944. It was a delicate post. Relations between France and the Vatican were strained. Many wartime French resistance leaders were angry because the previous nuncio had lived in Vichy, capital of defeated France.

Archbishop Roncalli mended the situation so swiftly that in three months France sent philosopher Jacques Maritain to the Vatican to resume normal diplomatic relations.

Archbishop Roncalli's days in France came to an end in January 1953, when Pope Pius XII made him a cardinal and three days later named him patriarch of Venice. It was his first assignment inside Italy in 38 years.

During his long years away from the Vatican, Angelo Roncalli found time to read extensively from the writings of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, the Vatican secretary of state who became Pope Pius XII in 1959.

Those writings and discourses, applying Roman Catholic teaching to problems across the range of modern politics and sociology, were absorbed by a man who later, as Pope, would shape them with his own individual outlook into concrete actions.

President Vincent Auriol of France gave Angelo Roncalli his red cardinal's biretta, following old custom, on Jan. 12, 1953. Three months later Auriol conferred on the departing cardinal the award of commander of the French Legion of Honor.

The people of Venice grew to love their patriarch during his five years there. He visited every parish in his jurisdiction, built 30 new parishes, ordered a new seminary and expanded countless projects and programs.

Next: How the Pope broke precedents.

Birmingham Is Quiet but Strife Swirls

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham is in the eye of the hurricane now.

The city is quiet. But the elemental forces of racial strife still swirl around it.

A biracial agreement, worked out between white businessmen and Negro leaders, ended the demonstrations in May. It provided, among other things, for the facilities within 90 days.

Today, the lunch counters in some stores are closed.

On the one hand—

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, chief strategist for the nonviolent campaign of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said the issue of dismissing charges against Negroes arrested last month, must be settled.

"If not," he said, "we'll start demonstrating again. We've got 5,000 who would go to jail."

About 2,400 Negroes were jailed between April 3 and May 7.

And on the other—

Attempts are under way to organize the white populace of Birmingham. An estimated 800 persons attended a meeting last Friday night and there was another Saturday, even bigger said a witness.

A newly formed organization claims to have obtained 20,000 signatures on a petition calling for an election to restore the commission form of government in the city.

The former administration was voted out of office last November. One of its top officials was T. Eugene (Bull) Connor, hard-bitten segregationist. The election was contested and the new administration was seated only recently after a ruling by the State Supreme Court.

The new mayor, Albert Boutwell, and his nine-member council have met four times. Two members said the racial problem has not yet been discussed but that they were sure it would be taken up.

The issue of desegregating the schools has complicated the problem.

Desegregating the schools would be, potentially a much more explosive action than desegregating the public facilities in some states.

Boy Dies in Big Darby During Swimming Party

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Ronald Hughes, 15, drowned in Big Darby Creek, near the Madison-Franklin county line, after going swimming Tuesday with his brother and a companion. The victim, stepson of Donald Haynes, was pulled from 10 feet of water about two hours after the accident.

Gov. George C. Wallace, ignoring the experience of Barnett, has announced he will keep Negroes out of the university even though a federal court has ordered them admitted.

If he tries it, there may be a repetition of the Mississippi episode.

But Kennedy has given no indication he will appeal for peace and quiet through a broadcast to the people of Alabama and at the same time to the people of the country at this time of increasing racial tension over civil rights.

Such a broadcast would, at least, throw an important part of the presidential power behind the government's efforts at desegregation.

What Kennedy is doing is working through the Justice department, appealing to businessmen to desegregate their establishments, and preparing new civil rights legislation to offer Congress next week.

He has shown a steady reluctance to appeal to the people, or explain his positions or programs to the people, over television and radio. He's done it seldom. Aides have said he doesn't want to overdo it for fear of wearing out his welcome.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy in 1960 thought a direct talk to the people by the President was an effective way of dealing with the civil rights problem.

But he himself used only one such appeal to reason, and then too late, and apparently doesn't plan another any time soon although the racial problem in civil rights is building up steam and could become critical next Monday.

In 1957 President Eisenhower had to send troops into Little Rock to restore quiet and back up a federal court order that Negro children be admitted to the city's Central High School.

Kennedy, in his 1960 campaign for the presidency, recalled the Little Rock disorders and indirectly criticized Eisenhower for not doing what Kennedy said President Roosevelt would have done: talk to the people.

Events moved toward a torrid and bloody climax last fall when Mississippi's Gov. Ross Barnett defied a federal court order to admit a Negro, James H. Meredith, to the University of Mississippi.

Kennedy had troops in the background, away in the back, when on the night of Sunday, Sept. 30, 1962 he tried to back up the court order and sweep aside Barnett's obstruction by sending U.S. marshals to the school with Meredith.

It was at about just that moment when Kennedy went on the air to appeal to Mississippians to be peaceful and respect the authority of the federal government as expressed through the court order. It was too late.

By the time he made the appeal rioting had broken out and lasted all night. Two men were killed. In the end Kennedy had to send in troops.

Last May 11, when peaceful Negro demonstrations in Birmingham had melted into a riot after Negro dwellings had been bombed, Kennedy moved troops into Alabama military bases but didn't send them into the city.

They could be rushed in if trouble began there again. Or they could be rushed next Monday to the University of Alabama if violence breaks out there, as it may.

Gov. George C. Wallace, ignoring the experience of Barnett, has announced he will keep Negroes out of the university even though a federal court has ordered them admitted.

If he tries it, there may be a repetition of the Mississippi episode.

But Kennedy has given no indication he will appeal for peace and quiet through a broadcast to the people of Alabama and at the same time to the people of the country at this time of increasing racial tension over civil rights.

Such a broadcast would, at least, throw an important part of the presidential power behind the government's efforts at desegregation.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most fascinating developments of television is the minute—or even 30-second—drama.

They've been around for years, but these wildly abbreviated little dramas are becoming more popular than ever in the commercial areas these days.

There's the worried bride whose husband is unhappy about her cooking—until her mother-in-law tips her off about the right cooking oil.

There's the cigarette girl who gets her man—or at least an engagement ring — by selling the lonely night club patron the right brand of cigars.

There's the neglected wife whose husband never takes her dancing, or brings her flowers, until she dyes away those dreadful gray hairs. Then, wowie! —it's nothing but the supper clubs and the bossa nova.

These speedy little dramas—complete with conflict and happy endings—are commercials of the Madison Avenue genus called "slice-of-life." Other categories include "demonstration," which simply show how the product works — and "testimonial," in which somebody stands up and informs us how his headache was cured, his health improved or how white was her wash.

At the moment, "slice-of-life" is vying with candid camera type "testimonial" commercials for top popularity. A possible sleeper is the "magic" commercials — the giant fist smashing out of a washing machine, the tornado whirling over a bottle of cleaning liquid.

Recommended tonight: "Portrait," CBS, 7:30-8 (EDT) — Interview with William Henry, new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission; Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10—Peter Ustinov is the guest star.

Ranks Grow Thin for Those Who Battled with Indians

By JONATHAN EDWARDS
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Seventy-three years after the last Indian battle in the United States, a few aged men who helped in "the winning of the West" are today living out the remnants of their lives in obscurity.

Sen. Vance Hartke (D) of Indiana has drawn back the curtain upon a romantic period in American history which most people believe is long since dead.

The senator disclosed that there are still 25 surviving Army veterans of the Indian Wars "who fought the battles that won the West". They are recognized as such on the pension rolls of the U.S. government.

The youngest veteran is 76. Since the Veterans Administration considers 1898, for pension purposes, as the year the Indian Wars ended, he would have been only 11 at the time. Possibly he was a drummer boy.

Historians regard the Battle of the Wounded Knee on Dec. 29, 1890 as the last engagement between Indians and troops in the U.S. The remaining veterans are aged 88 to 100. The oldest, Charles Gibson, 102, of Delphi, Ind., died recently. Hartke described survivors as "a small body of men who, having in their time endured extreme hardships and sacrifices for their country, are now apparently relegated to obscurity."

The senator lauded a Marion, Ind., editor, Paul L. Hillsamer, for compiling a "roll of honor" of the survivors. Hillsamer wrote that "not much attention has been paid the Indian War veterans by the nation's press, but they are a part of our national past and now, in their twilight years, deserve honor and esteem."

The Indiana editor added that the veterans "fought and risked their lives for less than a 14-year-old baby sitter earns today. They lived rough lives in the saddle, on the march, or in the primitive government forts of that era. A trooper unfortunate enough to be captured could expect a scalping, or, far worse, torture."

The surviving veterans, who receive pensions of $101 to $135 a month, are:

Reginald A. Bradley, Oakland, Calif., 96; Harry E. Brockman, St. James, Mo., 94; Isaac H. Burgess, Springfield, Ark., 92; Charles Creek, Annapolis, Md., 100; John C. Crump, Boston, Mass., 95; John Daw, Red Lake Trading Post, Ariz., 94; Charles Dickens, Scottsdale, Ariz., 93.

Jerome Faunce, Hannibal, Mo., 88; Edward B. Fielding, Miami, Fla., 91; Frederick W. Friske, Chicago, Ill., 81; Henry W. Hanft, St. Paul, Minn., 76; Walter C. Harrington, Gulfport, Fla., 94; Frank Hiedelberger, Hot Springs, S. D., 96.

HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD—Benedetto Cardinal Alois Masella (above) will administer the Papal household until a new Pope is selected. Cardinal Masella, treasurer of the College of Cardinals, will set in motion the protocol for the burial of Pope John XXIII and the summoning of electors to choose new Pope.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Stationary thunderstorms in the east-central Ohio counties Tuesday night dumped heavy rainfall which inundated U. S. 40 just west of Cambridge, caused landslides and local flooding in some communities. The central and western counties had little or no rainfall.

Temperatures during the night were from the upper 50s north to the 60s central and south. Southerly winds during the next 36 hours will bring warm, humid air northward, lifting afternoon temperatures into the 80s and causing scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers.

OHIO'S FIVE-DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN AND CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal. Normal high is 79-84, normal low 56-62. Only minor daily changes. Rainfall will average about two-tenths of an inch in scattered afternoon thundershowers.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average 4 to 6 degrees above normal. Normal high is 77-79, normal low 55-59. Warmer Thursday; only minor daily changes thereafter. Precipitation will average one-tenth to two-tenths of an inch in scattered showers throughout the period.

Turnpike-171 Hookup Seen By Late 1965

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Turnpike Commission Chairman James W. Shocknessy, also "expeditor" for completion of Interstate 71 between Cincinnati and Cleveland, doesn't rule out a hookup between the two super-highways by late 1965.

But he's making no promises. Shocknessy told the commission Tuesday during discussion about when such a direct connection might be ready. The only sure date, Shocknessy said, is the date the entire north-south Interstate 71 freeway is supposed to be finished — mid 1966.

Shocknessy reported that another $12 million in turnpike bonds was retired this week, bringing the total retired to date to almost $16.9 million. Originally, the commission issued $326 million in bonds.

C. W. Hartford turnpike executive director, said the problem of motorists' running out of gas continues despite warnings from attendants as they enter the toll road. An effort is being made to get all service stations on the turnpike to honor all other oil companies' credit cards, he said, and this may help solve the problem.

Gotham Firm Awarded Parking Garage Bonds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A syndicate of 24 financing firms headed by Blyth & Co., New York was awarded the $6.6 million worth of underground parking facility revenue bonds by the State Underground Parking Commission Tuesday.

The syndicate was the lowest of five bids offered. It called for an underwriting cost of $79,200. Interest rate of the bonds will be 4.03 per cent.

All-Night Graduation Fetes Frowned on by Educators

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season of graduation and senior proms, a time in which children become adults overnight and their parents age noticeably.

And school officials? A Maryland principal, Arnold N. Fleagle of Walkersville High, says June is a very critical month, is "one of those times when principals hold their breath and talk to kids and parents. Twelve years of planning and hope can go down the drain in one night."

Most school officials agree that unchaperoned all-night parties and wild joy rides ending in disastrous crashes are things of the past. A survey by The Associated Press indicates that the schools, with the help of parents, think they have the situation pretty well in hand.

Typical of many celebrations are the Omaha senior banquets or proms which break up late enough that authorities feel students have run out of steam. Assistant Superintendent Owen Knutzen says all-night parties are banned and "We'd jump all over parents if we knew about any."

But other parents and school officials have backed off the problem of all-night parties to take a long, thoughtful look and decide, if you can't lick 'em, join 'em.

This means that adults thoroughly chaperone the affairs, enforce rules of conduct such as no admittance once the youngsters leave—to eliminate occasional forays into parked cars—and no drinking.

Maryland's deputy state superintendent of schools, Dr. David W. Zimmerman says all-night drinking parties used to cause trouble. Now numerous all-night non-drinking parties held under parental supervision have resulted in improved school-community relations.

Some seniors, though, insist there are seeds of unchaperoned parties, including jaunts to Washington for drinking and to Baltimore for better restaurants.

The parents' promenade in Barberton, Ohio, is typical of parent-sponsored affairs designed to lure youngsters away from hazardous celebrations.

After the prom given by the juniors for the seniors ends at 11:30 p.m. the seniors are escorted to another building. There civic leaders and school officials serve the kids dinner prepared by the parents. The young people dance some more, watch a show produced by the parents. Finally breakfast is served and the seniors go to church around 6:30 a. m.

In Dallas, where traditionally the proms are formal school dances held at a downtown hotel, parents arrange an all-night dancing party at a country club with breakfast later. Many of the young celebrants, however, get so tired by 4:30 a.m., they're taken home to bed without waiting for breakfast.

The Kiwanis Club rents the dance hall for a post-prom party in Laconia, N. H. and in Nashua, N.H., a bank sponsors an all-night rock 'n' roll session after the prom.

But, no matter where it is, Miami or Pretty Prairie, Kan., parents have the prom happen to them only once per child. For long-suffering school officials it comes every year and sometimes that seems too often.

Xenia School District Shuns Bond Issue Again

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Voters in the Xenia city school district, who defeated a $1.6 million bond issue for school construction last fall gave a repeat performance at the polls Tuesday. The latest vote showed 2,159 in favor and 2,344 against the proposal.

State FHA Head To Attend Meet At Pittsburgh

James T. McDorman, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, will report on progress made in strengthening rural communities and family farms when attending a regional meeting of the FHA at Pittsburgh, Pa., June 11, 12, and 13, 1963.

During recent months the FHA has launched programs to help family farmers develop income producing recreation facilities, to finance special housing for senior citizens in rural areas, and shift land into grazing, forestry and recreation.

Programs to help develop inadequate farms into family farms, assist young farmers in becoming established in agriculture, enable farmers handicapped by age and physical disabilities improve their farm incomes have been expanded.

Financial assistance for the development of rural community water systems and rural housing has also been increased.

During the past three years the agency's lending activities in Ohio have increased 40 per cent. In fiscal 1963 more than $7,000,000 will be advanced for rural area development.

The FHA through a network of 1,500 county offices located throughout rural America provides credit assistance in farm and financial management to owners and operators of family farms and aids farmers and rural residents in improving rural housing and other rural community facilities.

The agency's funds supplement the credit provided by other lenders. State directors and county supervisors of the agency serve as chairmen of RAD technical action panels organized to help rural communities develop their local economies.

During the past quarter of a century in program currently active the FHA and its predecessor agencies have loaned more than $54,702,863 in Ohio. More than $51,549,000 in principal and interest have been repaid. Interest collections far exceed the amounts written off.

The Pickaway County office of the FHA is located at 159 1/2 East Main Street, Circleville. Wade E. Jeffers, county supervisor, has office hours 10-12 noon every Tuesday.

QUICK THINKING TEACHER—Miss Margaret Rankin, a teacher at Lincoln School in Carnegie, Pa., shows two of her students how she brought their school bus to a stop on Parkway East when the driver collapsed at the wheel. The children, Timothy Fisher and Elaine Smith, were among the 28 sixth graders riding the bus at the time.

Waddling Buddy Hackett Says Incentive Needed for Diet

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last November comedian Buddy Hackett was playing before a night club audience in Philadelphia when he felt a constriction in his chest.

"I was all tied up," he recalls. "The first thing I thought was that I was getting scared of audiences. I know of comics who had that happen to them."

Buddy finally arrived at his own diagnosis of his trouble: overweight. He was a waddling 227 pounds then. Today he is a streamlined 185.

Buddy dropped into town between night club dates to say hello to his buddies from "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." Because of the dropped poundage and the sporty beard he has grown, some scarcely recognized him.

How did he manage the transformation?

"I had three weeks off after Philadelphia, so I checked into Duke University Hospital, where I had been before," he said. "Believe me, I was the thinnest patient there; one guy had lost 250 pounds."

"Me, I lost 27 pounds in the three weeks. When I broke 20 I left to do a date in Florida. I gained back seven pounds, then went back to Duke for a week or so."

"How did I lose there? They use no medication; you just don't eat."

"Any diet will work for anybody if they will stick with it," he said. "Getting a reason to do so is the main problem. With me it was my son. When he got to be 3, I figured I wanted to play catch with him without being unable to pick up the ball."

Like many of us food-loving Americans, weight has long been a problem with Buddy. At 17 he weighed 165. By 18 he was in the 200s. How did it happen?

"I got to the legal age to drink beer," he said. "Also I was working in the Catskills and eating regular."

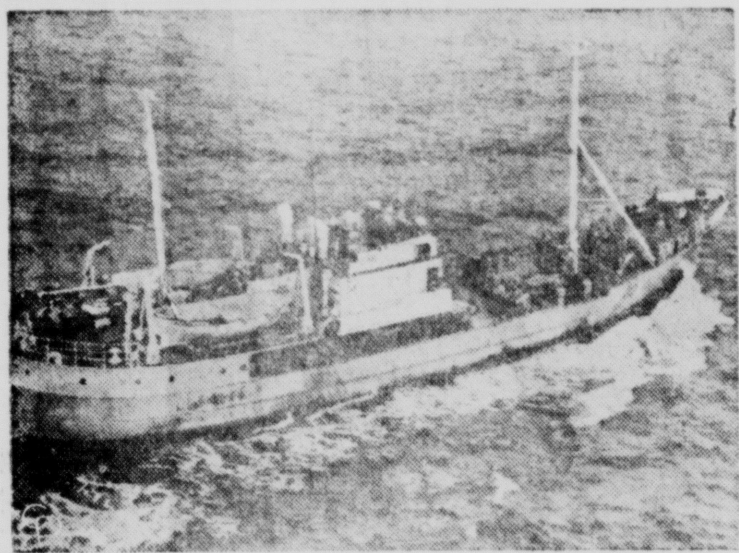

At one point he ballooned to 250 pounds. This helped his act, but it wasn't funny to live with.

Ohio River Clean-up Asked by Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Councilman Thomas Spraul wants the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to clean the shallows along both banks of the Ohio River of tree stumps.

Spraul filed a motion with the council asking the city to arrange a meeting for Ohio and northern Kentucky officials in order to present a joint request to the engineers. Spraul said the tree stumps are a peril for boaters and water skiers, and added that the danger became greater since the Ohio's pool was raised by the New Markland Dam.

Tighter U.S. Securities Law Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed overhaul and tightening of the securities laws—one of the most sweeping in the history of investor protection legislation—has been sent to Congress by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC asked enactment of the entire bundle during this session, and told the House Interstate Commerce Committee that it believes the securities industry will support it as constructive and practical.

The commission omitted some proposals which it said earlier would be transmitted this year, but SEC Chairman William L. Cary indicated these will be forthcoming later, probably for consideration in 1964.

The proposals would: Extend to thousands of corporations whose stock is bought and sold "over the counter"—instead of on the organized exchanges—the full-disclosure and financial reporting requirements which now apply only to stocks listed on the exchanges.

Tighten the standards of character, training and experience required of persons newly entering the business as broker-dealers, representatives or salesmen, and enlarge SEC's disciplinary controls over broker-dealers and their employees.

Curb to some extent some abuses which have occurred in "hot issues"—new stocks whose prices have soared beyond normal patterns of movement—by requiring that prospective buyers be furnished with prospectuses, giving full financial information, for not less than 90 days after the stock is issued. The present requirement is 40 days.

In New York, the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange, the two largest in the nation, quickly voiced strong support of the SEC program "in principle."

They specifically praised the proposals for fuller public disclosure by corporations of financial information. Both exchanges already enforce rather stringent requirements along this line.

Like a Doctor Show

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Kiddies can visit their sick parents or friends via television under a system operating at St. Joseph Hospital here.

Children too young to visit sick rooms can pick up a phone in the hospital lobby, dial the room they want, then watch mommy or daddy via a closed circuit TV hookup while they talk to them on the phone.

Labyrinth Under Gotham Is Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — A man could live his entire life under New York City and his body would have to emerge into the air and sunlight only to be buried. There is no room for graveyards in the vast and complex world inhabited by thousands and used by millions, beneath the city of concrete canyons and skyscraper mountains.

No map can depict the underground development. No man knows all that's there.

Diggers frequently turn up a long-lost item. Among other things they have found a forgotten British tunnel and a bootlegger's tunnel leading from the Hudson River to what was a prohibition cables and wires almost 19 miles.

Yale Degree To Be Given 41 Years Late

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—It's been a long wait for Matilda Fenberg.

Yale University denied her a law degree 41 years ago because her academic average was a fraction shy of the required figure.

Miss Fenberg went back to Ohio and passed the bar examination there. A year later she passed the Illinois bar and joined Clarence Darrow's law firm in Chicago.

Next Monday, at its 262nd commencement, Yale will do right by Miss Fenberg, now 75. It will award her the degree.

And it will be quite legitimate, explained Dean Eugene V. Rostow of the Yale Law School.

Miss Fenberg, a native of Findlay, Ohio, completed Yale Law School with an average of 60.2 points in her third year—0.3 points below the required mark.

The average did not include a grade of B Miss Fenberg received in a summer course at Columbia Law School in 1919. Now she will be allowed to include the mark in above the minimum.

3 Men Accused In Cincy Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Three men have been charged with first degree murder in the robbery-slaying of 76-year-old Mrs. Emma Austing.

Lt. Herbert Vogel of the Hamilton County Sheriff's office signed the warrants against Elmer Miller, 46, of Cincinnati; Lester Eugene Swiger, 27, of Clermont County; and Curtis Bellamy, 19, of Milford.

Police say the three admitted breaking into Mrs. Austing's home May 5, beating her and tying her up when she would not tell them where her valuables were hidden. She died May 20.

No date for a preliminary hearing has been set. All three are in Hamilton County Jail.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

era speakeasy owned by Dutch Schultz.

Even at the turn of the century, builders of the city's first subway system weren't sure what they would find.

Writing 25 years later, the chief engineer, Gen. William Barclay Parsons, recalled: "Water pipes could be located by occasional valve boxes and the sewers by manholes, but little was known of their physical condition or connections."

"The gas company supposed that it owned pipes in certain streets because the householders received gas and paid for it; but as to how it was delivered, the company could not tell."

Each utility company and each city department maintains a separate map to show only its underground system. The development includes enough telephone lines miles, to string 75 lines to the moon; enough electric cable, 61,500 miles, to wrap twice around the earth and tie a bow as broad as the United States.

A person can live at a hotel in Brooklyn, shop at some of the best stores in Manhattan, attend concerts and visit museums, get a marriage license and answer a court summons, journey to the Bronx and Queens, and never go outside.

A youth in Queens—just to see if he could do it—rode all the lines on the subway with a single token. With the necessary doubling back he traveled more than 400 miles in 25 hours and 36 minutes.

Underground New York has developed its characters—like legendary Teddy May, the "Sultan of the Sewers," or Maurice the Bookman.

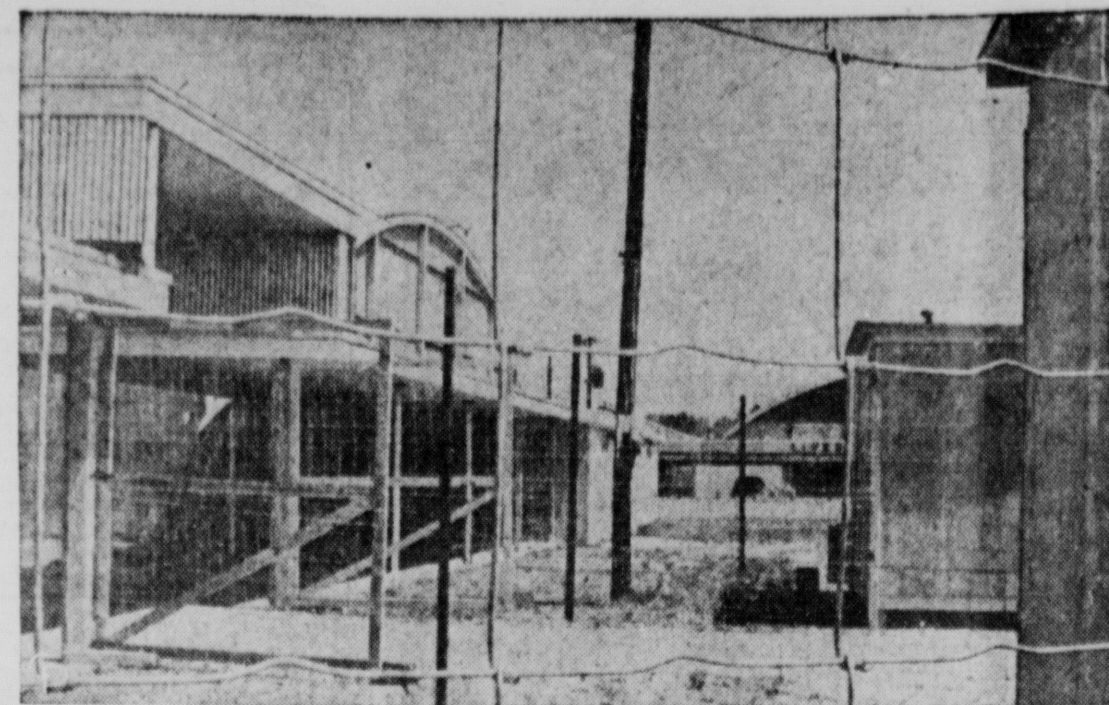

Salty, tobacco-chewing Teddy May died a few years ago at the age of 85 after spending a half-century working with the sewers of the city.

From May city fathers got much of the information for the map of a 5,000-mile system which started haphazardly from a roofed over boat canal. The roof became Canal Street and the sewer is still in use.

Maurice, a gray-bearded denizen of Greenwich Village who keeps his family name secret, has fought a running battle with concessionaires for years about the thousands of books he keeps stored in subway station lockers.

Another character worked out an elaborate timetable of late trains and routes to enable him to sleep undisturbed by any of the subway system's 972 police men, the fifth largest police force in the state. His experiences gave the title to the Broadway musical, "Subways Are For Sleeping."

'JAIL' FOR DEMONSTRATORS—A six-foot hog fence encircles two big exhibit buildings at the Mississippi State Fairgrounds in Jackson, ready to accommodate arrested racial demonstrators. Police say the quarters can house 2,500 comfortably.

The commission omitted some proposals which it said earlier would be transmitted this year, but SEC Chairman William L. Cary indicated these will be forthcoming later, probably for consideration in 1964.

The proposals would: Extend to thousands of corporations whose stock is bought and sold "over the counter"—instead of on the organized exchanges—the full-disclosure and financial reporting requirements which now apply only to stocks listed on the exchanges.

Tighten the standards of character, training and experience required of persons newly entering the business as broker-dealers, representatives or salesmen, and enlarge SEC's disciplinary controls over broker-dealers and their employees.

Curb to some extent some abuses which have occurred in "hot issues"—new stocks whose prices have soared beyond normal patterns of movement—by requiring that prospective buyers be furnished with prospectuses, giving full financial information, for not less than 90 days after the stock is issued. The present requirement is 40 days.

In New York, the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange, the two largest in the nation, quickly voiced strong support of the SEC program "in principle."

They specifically praised the proposals for fuller public disclosure by corporations of financial information. Both exchanges already enforce rather stringent requirements along this line.

Like a Doctor Show

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Kiddies can visit their sick parents or friends via television under a system operating at St. Joseph Hospital here.

Children too young to visit sick rooms can pick up a phone in the hospital lobby, dial the room they want, then watch mommy or daddy via a closed circuit TV hookup while they talk to them on the phone.

Labyrinth Under Gotham Is Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — A man could live his entire life under New York City and his body would have to emerge into the air and sunlight only to be buried.

There is no room for graveyards in the vast and complex world inhabited by thousands and used by millions, beneath the city of concrete canyons and skyscraper mountains.

No map can depict the underground development. No man knows all that's there.

Diggers frequently turn up a long-lost item. Among other things, they have found a forgotten British tunnel leading from the Hudson River to what was a prohibition cables and wires almost 19 miles.

Yale Degree To Be Given 41 Years Late

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—It's been a long wait for Matilda Fenberg.

Yale University denied her a law degree 41 years ago because her academic average was a fraction shy of the required figure.

Miss Fenberg went back to Ohio and passed the bar examination there. A year later she passed the Illinois bar and joined Clarence Darrow's law firm in Chicago.

Next Monday, at its 262nd commencement, Yale will do right by Miss Fenberg, now 75. It will award her the degree.

And it will be quite legitimate, explained Dean Eugene V. Rostow of the Yale Law School.

Miss Fenberg, a native of Findlay, Ohio, completed Yale Law School with an average of 60.2 points in her third year—0.3 points below the required mark.

The average did not include a grade of B Miss Fenberg received in a summer course at Columbia Law School in 1919. Now she will be allowed to include the mark in above the minimum.

3 Men Accused In Cincy Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Three men have been charged with first degree murder in the robbery-slaying of 76-year-old Mrs. Emma Austing.

Lt. Herbert Vogel of the Hamilton County Sheriff's office signed the warrants against Elmer Miller, 46, of Cincinnati; Lester Eugene Swiger, 27, of Clermont County; and Curtis Bellamy, 19, of Milford.

Police say the three admitted breaking into Mrs. Austing's home May 5, beating her and tying her up when she would not tell them where her valuables were hidden. She died May 20.

No date for a preliminary hearing has been set. All three are in Hamilton County Jail.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

ena speakeasy owned by Dutch Schultz.

Even at the turn of the century, builders of the city's first subway system weren't sure what they would find.

Writing 25 years later, the chief engineer, Gen. William Barclay Parsons, recalled: "Water pipes could be located by occasional valve boxes and the sewers by manholes, but little was known of their physical condition or connections."

"The gas company supposed that it owned pipes in certain streets because the householders received gas and paid for it; but as to how it was delivered, the company could not tell."

Each utility company and each city department maintains a separate map to show only its underground system. The development includes enough telephone lines, to string 75 lines to the moon; enough electric cable, 61,500 miles, to wrap twice around the earth and tie a bow as broad as the United States.

A person can live at a hotel in Brooklyn, shop at some of the best stores in Manhattan, attend concerts and visit museums, get a marriage license and answer a court summons, journey to the Bronx and Queens, and never go outside.

A youth in Queens—just to see if he could do it—rode all the lines on the subway with a single token. With the necessary doubling back he traveled more than 400 miles in 25 hours and 36 minutes.

Underground New York has developed its characters—like legendary Teddy May, the "Sultan of the Sewers," or Maurice the Bookman.

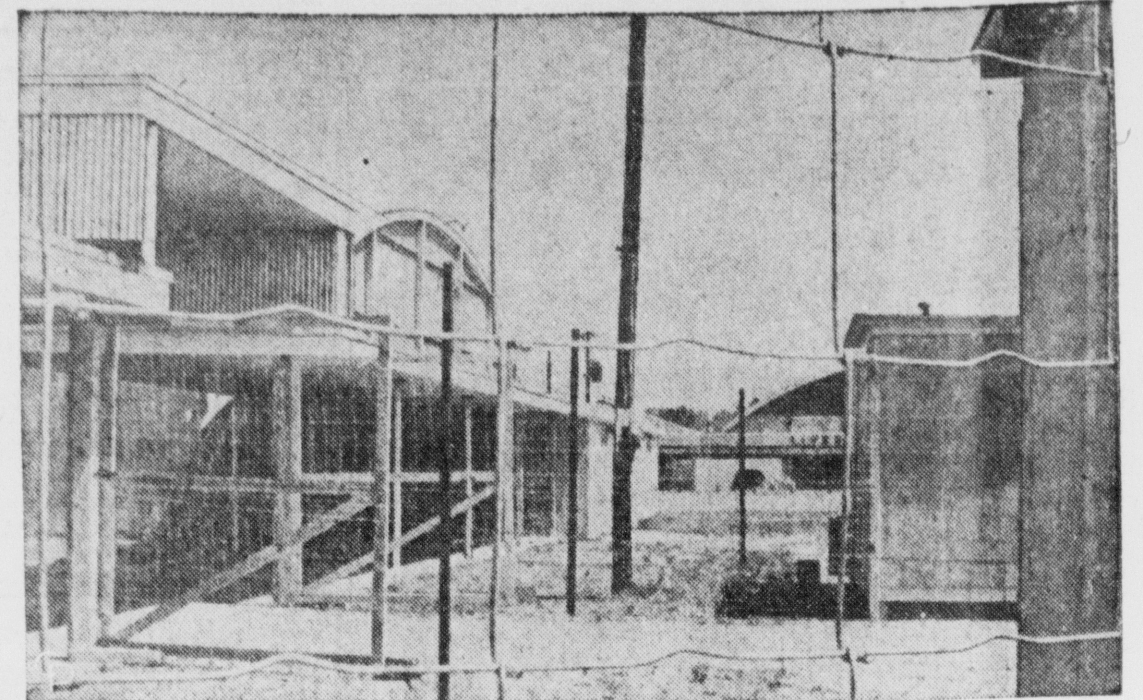

Salty, tobacco-chewing Teddy May died a few years ago at the age of 85 after spending a half-century working with the sewers of the city.

From May city fathers got much of the information for the map of a 5,000-mile system which started haphazardly from a roofed over boat canal. The roof became Canal Street and the sewer is still in use.

Maurice, a gray-bearded denizen of Greenwich Village who keeps his family name secret, has fought a running battle with concessionaires for years about the thousands of books he keeps stored in subway station lockers.

Another character worked out an elaborate timetable of late trains and routes to enable him to sleep undisturbed by any of the subway system's 972 police men, the fifth largest police force in the state. His experiences gave the title to the Broadway musical, "Subways Are For Sleeping."

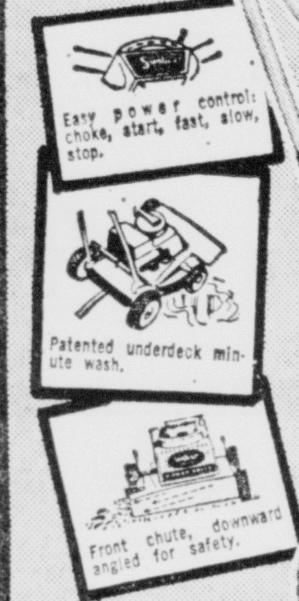

'JAIL' FOR DEMONSTRATORS—A six-foot hog fence encircles two big exhibit buildings at the Mississippi State Fairgrounds in Jackson, ready to accommodate arrested racial demonstrators. Police say the quarters can house 2,500 comfortably.

Coca Cola, Bingman Teams Win Little League Major Tilts

Damp weather failed to halt play in the Little League majors yesterday as Coca Cola defeated the Herald Hawks, 7-5, and Ralston Purina was edged by Bingman Drugs, 12-11.

In the Herald-Coke game, both teams pushed across runs in the first inning, then the Cokemen went ahead with a four-run spree in the third frame.

The Herald came back with a tally in the fourth and three in the fifth to tie the game. But two runs in the bottom of the sixth gave the victory to the Coca Cola.

Leading the 13-hit attack for the winners was Allen Black, with a triple, a double and a single in three trips. Rick Sims socked a triple and a pair of singles and scored two runs.

BILL THOMAS tallied a pair of runs on two hits, including a triple, for the Hawks. Danny Ankrom was three-for-three at the plate with a double and two singles scoring one run. Lloyd Crosby tagged a pair of singles, crossing home plate once.

The Bingman drug team gained the winning run in the bottom of the final inning after Ralston had knotted the score, 11-11, in the top of the fifth.

The Millers jumped off to an early lead, scoring three in the first, came back with three each in the second and third to lead 9-2 as the Drugsters started their half of the third.

The winners produced nine big runs in that frame and went on to win.

Marion Long tagged a triple for the winners, the longest hit of the game, and a pair of singles in three trips and scored three runs to pace the winners.

Rod Kasper was two-for-four with two runs for the losers.

Wills Returns To Action, Sparks Bums

Speedy Maury Plates Pair of Runs, Assures Victory over Colts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Dragsville for the Dodgers without Maury Wills. But the fast cat has made the scene again and things are beginning to swing.

Wills, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season with his record 104 stolen bases, rejoined the Dodgers Tuesday night after his latest bout with a bad foot and promptly sparked them out of a losing skid.

He scored both Los Angeles runs, the deciding one after swiping his 12th base of the year, in a 2-1 squeaker over the Houston Colts.

By winning, the Dodgers maintained their third-place tie with Chicago's charging Cubs, who knocked off the front-running San Francisco Giants 6-1. Bob Buhl pitched the Cubs to their eighth victory in the last 10 games with a five-hitter, while eight-game winner Billy O'Dell took his first loss.

The Dodgers and Cubs now are three games behind the Giants and 1½ back of the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the only other NL game played, the Milwaukee Braves netted three runs in the ninth inning with the help of reliever Galen Cisco's wildness and beat the New York Mets 3-2. Cincinnati-at-Pittsburgh was rained out, while St. Louis and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Baltimore took over the American League lead, trimming New York 3-1 and dropping the Yankees to second. Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Angels shut out the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Minnesota whipped Kansas City 5-0, Cleveland overcame Detroit 6-4 and Washington clipped Boston 1-0.

Wills got the Dodgers on the scoreboard early when he led off with a walk, raced to third on Jim Gilliam's double, and scampered home on a wild pitch. In the third, Wills singled with one out, stole second and came in on Ron Fairly's single.

The Cubs rapped the previously unbeaten O'Dell for nine of their 10 hits and chased the southpaw in the sixth inning, Ernie Banks and Ron Santo each had three hits and two runs batted in for the Cubs, who were aided by Orlando Cepeda's two errors.

Cisco walked across Milwaukee's tying run in the ninth inning and then forced in the winner by hitting pinch batter Mack Jones with a pitch. Prior to their last-inning scramble, the Braves had been stifled on two singles by ex-teammate Carl Willey and were trailing the Mets 2-0.

Hank Aaron got it started with a one-out single, then stole second and scored on Don Dillar's single. Another single by Tommie Aaron and a walk to Joe Torre filled the bases—setting the stage for Willey's departure and Cisco's entrance.

Du Pont Trips Kiwanis in 4-2 Contest

In the only Babe Ruth Major league tilt slated yesterday, DuPont defeated Kiwanis, 4 to 2 on the Fairgrounds diamond. It was the first game of the new season for both teams.

DuPont never trailed, notching a two-run lead in the first inning. Kiwanis could never get its bats unlimbered as the winning DuPont hurler, Buddy Strehle, allowed only two runs on 6 scattered singles.

Strehle helped his cause at the plate by going 4-for-4. He smacked two doubles and drove in three runs.

Jeff Ankrom was the top Kiwanis hitter. He poled two singles in four trips to the plate.

Rodriguez Preps To Defend Title

GREENFIELD PARK, N.Y., (AP) — "I'm going to get out in front and win all the way. Then everyone will know that I am the rightful champion."

Having gotten that off his chest, welterweight champion Luis Rodriguez went to work today in his final boxing drill for his return title fight with ex-champ Emile Griffith of New York at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The fun-loving fighter from Miami by way of Cuba won the 147-pound division crown from Griffith on a close but unanimous 15-round decision at Los Angeles last March 21.

Johnny Rotz has led the New York jockeys the last two years. In 1962 he rode 198 winners. In 1961 he had 157 victories at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga.

Browns Lose Third Player

Defensive Halfback Electrocuted on Job

CLEVELAND (AP)—The electrocution of Don Fleming, defensive halfback for the Cleveland Browns, made him the third Browns player to die this year. Veteran sports experts could not remember when a professional team was so hard hit by tragedy.

The other two to die were halfbacks Ernie Davis and Tom Bloom, who graduated from Purdue last year. Davis, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1961 while playing for Syracuse — the first Negro to do it—died of leukemia May 18.

Bloom, sixth draft choice of the Browns, was killed in an automobile accident early this year shortly after signing with the National Football League club.

Browns president, Arthur B. Modell, whose feelings for Davis were more than that of an executive, had difficulty expressing his feelings over the death of Fleming in a construction accident Tuesday in Orlando, Fla.

"He was a good boy, besides being an outstanding football player," said Modell. "He was an exceptional family man. We are deeply shocked."

Fleming, 25, and Walter Smith of Sanford, Fla., were killed when a drag line they were operating brushed against an electric wire. They were working on a pipeline.

A graduate of the University of Florida, where he played with Browns linebacker Bernie Parrish, Fleming was married and had one son. A resident of Shady-side, Ohio, Fleming became a regular safety man with the Browns in 1960 after refusing to sign with the Chicago Cardinals, who had drafted him.

He was a solid defensive back, a rugged tackler and considered by many at the point of becoming one of the really great defensive performers in the league.

The top candidate for the spot Fleming would have filled in Bobby Franklin, the fifth man in the defensive backfield last season. He is a four-year veteran with the team.

Coca Cola, Bingman Teams Win Little League Major Tilts

Damp weather failed to halt play in the Little League majors yesterday as Coca Cola defeated the Herald Hawks, 7-5, and Ralston Purina was edged by Bingman Drugs, 12-11.

In the Herald-Coke game, both teams pushed across runs in the first inning, then the Cokemen went ahead with a four-run spree in the third frame.

The Herald came back with a tally in the fourth and three in the fifth to tie the game. But two runs in the bottom of the sixth gave the victory to the Coca Cola.

Leading the 13-hit attack for the winners was Allen Black, with a triple, a double and a single in three trips. Rick Sims socked a triple and a pair of singles and scored two runs.

BILL THOMAS tallied a pair of runs on two hits, including a triple, for the Hawks. Danny Ankrom was three-for-three at the plate with a double and two singles scoring one run. Lloyd Crosby tagged a pair of singles, crossing home plate once.

The Bingman drug team gained the winning run in the bottom of the final inning after Ralston had knotted the score, 11-11, in the top of the fifth.

The Millers jumped off to an early lead, scoring three in the first, came back with three each in the second and third to lead 9-2 as the Drugsters started their half to pace the winners.

The winners produced nine big runs in that frame and went on to win.

Marion Long tagged a triple for the winners, the longest hit of the game, and a pair of singles in three trips and scored three runs to pace the winners.

Rod Kasfer was two-for-four with two runs for the losers.

Wills Returns To Action, Sparks Bums

Speedy Maury Plates
Pair of Runs, Assures
Victory over Colts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Dragsville for the Dodgers without Maury Wills. But the fast cat has made the scene again and things are beginning to swing.

Wills, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season with his record 104 stolen bases, rejoined the Dodgers Tuesday night after his latest bout with a bad foot and promptly sparked them out of a losing skid.

He scored both Los Angeles runs, the deciding one after swiping his 12th base of the year, in a 2-1 squeaker over the Houston Colts.

By winning, the Dodgers maintained their third-place tie with Chicago's charging Cubs, who knocked off the front-running San Francisco Giants 6-1. Bob Buhl pitched the Cubs to their eighth victory in the last 10 games with a five-hitter, while eight-game winner Billy O'Dell took his first loss.

The Dodgers and Cubs now are three games behind the Giants and 1½ back of the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the only other NL game played, the Milwaukee Braves netted three runs in the ninth inning with the help of reliever Galen Cisco's wildness and beat the New York Mets 3-2. Cincinnati-at-Pittsburgh was rained out, while St. Louis and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Baltimore took over the American League lead, trimming New York 3-1 and dropping the Yankees to second. Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Angels shut out the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Minnesota whipped Kansas City 5-0 Cleveland overcame Detroit 6-4 and Washington clipped Boston 1-0.

Wills got the Dodgers on the scoreboard early when he led off with a walk, raced to third on Jim Gilliam's double, and scampered home on a wild pitch. In the third, Wills singled with one out, stole second and came in on Ron Fairly's single.

The Cubs rapped the previously unbeaten O'Dell for nine of their 10 hits and chased the southpaw in the sixth inning, Ernie Banks and Ron Santo each had three hits and two runs batted in for the Cubs, who were aided by Orlando Cepeda's two errors.

Cisco walked across Milwaukee's tying run in the ninth inning and then forced in the winner by hitting pinch batter Mack Jones with a pitch. Prior to their last-inning scramble, the Braves had been stuffed on two singles by ex-teammate Carl Willey and were trailing the Mets 2-0.

Hank Aaron got it started with a one-out single, then stole second and scored on Don Dillar's single. Another single by Tommie Aaron and a walk to Joe Torre filled the bases—setting the stage for Willey's departure and Cisco's entrance.

Du Pont Trips Kiwanis in 4-2 Contest

In the only Babe Ruth Major league tilt slated yesterday, DuPont defeated Kiwanis, 4 to 2 on the Fairgrounds diamond. It was the first game of the new season for both teams.

DuPont never trailed, notching a two-run lead in the first inning. Kiwanis could never get its bats unlimbered as the winning DuPont hurler, Buddy Strehle, allowed only two runs on 6 scattered singles.

Strehle helped his cause at the plate by going 4-for-4. He smacked two doubles and drove in three runs.

Jeff Ankrom was the top Kiwanis hitter. He poled two singles in four trips to the plate.

Rodriguez Preps To Defend Title

GREENFIELD PARK, N.Y., (AP) — "I'm going to get out in front and win all the way. Then everyone will know that I am the rightful champion."

Having gotten that off his chest, welterweight champion LAES Rodriguez went to work today in his final boxing drill for his return title fight with ex-champ Emile Griffith of New York at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The fun-loving fighter from Miami by way of Cuba won the 147-pound division crown from Griffith on a close but unanimous 15-round decision at Los Angeles last March 21.

Johnny Rotz has led the New York jockeys the last two years. In 1962 he rode 198 winners. In 1961 he had 157 victories at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga.

State Maintains 1,436 Wild Pets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You may not have known it, Ohioans, but you're supporting 1,436 state-owned pets.

On display at various Ohio Division of Wildlife outposts, the menagerie of state animals includes 10 bears, 7 deer, 65 pheasants, 113 box turtles, 107 gray squirrels, 16 woodchucks, 68 skunks and 1,050 raccoons.

They're yours, go see 'em, the division urges.

The 17 Ohio units of the U. S. Power Squadrons, teaching boating safety to the public free of charge, are setting up their annual courses. The curriculum is covered in 13 evening lessons on boat piloting, taking in rules of the "road," navigation aids, charting, seamanship laws and regulations and the like. Instructions are gratis, but textbook and course material must be purchased, 6

A female coyote, 3,035 pounds, popped up along an Ohio road recently—and that was its undoing. Highland County game protector John Adams relates the incident: The sighting was reported to feed mill worker Estel Shelton of Rt. 4, Hillsboro, and he drove to the spot near the dam at Rocky Fork Lake.

He saw the coyote lying at the edge of a wheatfield. When he approached, the animal bared its teeth. Shelton conked it on the head with a tire tool. End of Coyote.

The pheasant nesting season is here, and so is hay mowing time. The Division of Wildlife, noting that many of the game birds fall victim to mowing machines each year, says it will provide flushing bars to interested landowners. Even when a flushing bar is used many nests are destroyed, but the hay mowers which might have been killed by the mower gets a chance to live and nest.

Three south central Ohio lakes received 3,425,000 walleye fry this spring: Rocky Fork Lake 825,000; Buckeye Lake 600,000 and Hoover Reservoir in Delaware County 2 million.

Chillicothe district fish management supervisor Ray Rietmiller says Hoover may turn out to be the best walleye lake in central Ohio on the basis of steadily increasing catches. He said the practice of shipping walleye fry in watertight, oxygenized polyethylene bags has raised the survival rate at point of release to better than 95 per cent.

Michigan State's spring football roster lists two sets of brothers—George and Jim Haislip of Detroit and Dick and Jim Proesbtle of Canton, Ohio.

COURTESY and safety go hand-in-hand toward greater fun in any sport. This is especially true when the sport involves water and power vehicles. It always is surprising to note, however, that participants must be reminded of these common sense rules.

Accident statistics show much too often that experienced boaters cause many accidents and drownings. So, here's a reminder again to all boaters of the basic safety rules:

DON'T overload. It may be fun to get all the relatives together for a boat ride, but it just isn't safe. Seats do not indicate capacity.

HAVE life preservers or buoyant seat cushions for every person aboard.

NEVER make a sharp turn at high speed.

WATCH the weather. In rough water, keep low in the boat and head into the waves. DON'T stand up. If you must change seats or stand, keep to the center with both hands on gunwales, stay low. KEEP WATCH for logs or other obstructions, rocks, other boats, swimmers and water skiers.

ABOVE ALL, have consideration for other people and carry a litter bag. Let's keep the waterways and beaches clean.

A female coyote, 3,035 pounds, popped up along an Ohio road recently—and that was its undoing. Highland County game protector John Adams relates the incident:

The sighting was reported to feed mill worker Estel Shelton of Rt. 4, Hillsboro, and he drove to the spot near the dam at Rocky Fork Lake.

He saw the coyote lying at the edge of a wheatfield. When he approached, the animal bared its teeth. Shelton cocked it on the head with a tire tool. End of Coyote.

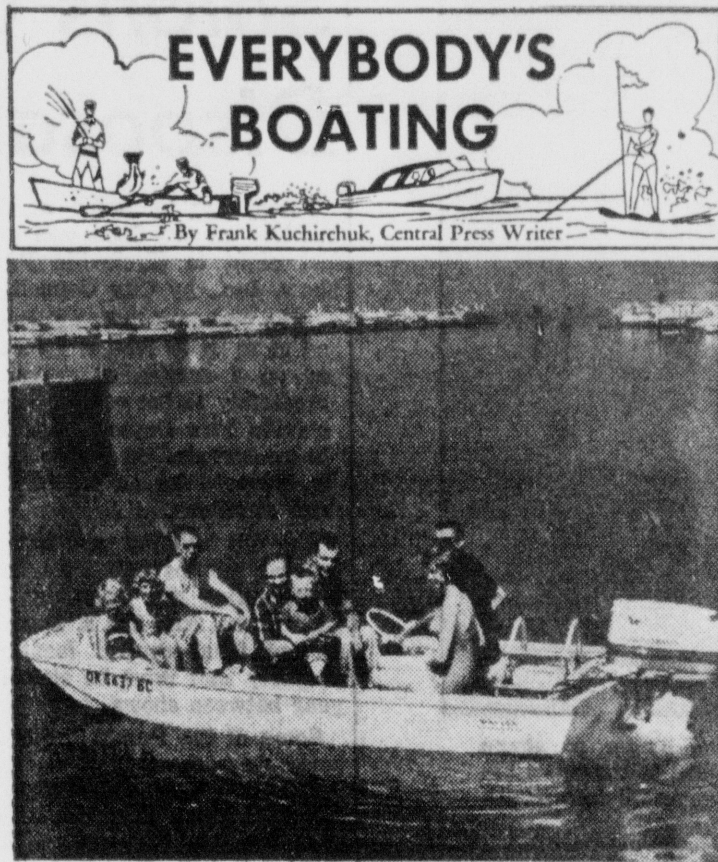

The pheasant nesting season is here, and so is hay mowing time. The Divisions of Wildlife, noting that many of the game birds fall victim to mowing machines each year, says it will provide flushing bars to interested landowners. Even when a flushing bar is used many nests are destroyed, but the hen pheasant which might have been killed by the mower gets a chance to live and renest.

Three south central Ohio lakes received 3,425,000 walleye fry this spring: Rocky Fork Lake 825,000; Buckeye Lake 600,000 and Hoover Reservoir in Delaware County 2 million.

Chillicothe district fish management supervisor Ray Riethmiller says Hoover may turn out to be the best walleye lake in central Ohio on the basis of steadily increasing catches. He said the practice of shipping walleye fry in watertight, oxygenized polyethylene bags has raised the survival rate at point of release to better than 95 per cent.

Michigan State's spring football roster lists two sets of brothers—George and Jim Haislip of Detroit and Dick and Jim Proesbtle of Canton, Ohio.

COURTESY and safety go hand-in-hand toward greater fun in any sport. This is especially true when the sport involves water and power vehicles. It always is surprising to note, however, that participants must be reminded of these common sense rules.

Accident statistics show much too often that experienced boaters cause many accidents and drownings. So, here's a reminder again to all boaters of the basic safety rules:

DON'T overload. It may be fun to get all the relatives together for a boat ride, but it just isn't safe. Seats do not indicate capacity.

HAVE life preservers or buoyant seat cushions for every person aboard.

NEVER make a sharp turn at high speed.

WATCH the weather. In rough water, keep low in the boat and head into the waves.

DON'T stand up. If you must change seats or stand, keep to the center with both hands on gunwales, stay low.

KEEP WATCH for logs or other obstructions, rocks, other boats, swimmers and water skiers.

ABOVE ALL, have consideration for other people and carry a litter bag. Let's keep the waterways and beaches clean.

Tribe Relief Artists Are Joy to Birdie

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians have won three straight games now and manager Birdie Tebbetts' search for good relief pitchers may be over.

Ted Abernathy and Jerry Walker, two right-handed relief hurlers, turned in outstanding performances in the Tribe's 6-4 come-from-behind victory Tuesday night over the slumping Detroit Tigers. Both held the Tigers to one hit over the last four innings.

Abernathy, who uses an underhand delivery, took over in the eighth and retired the last six Detroit batters in order to preserve the Indians' triumph. He struck out three of them.

Walker relieved starter Barry Latman in the sixth and was the winner. His record is now 3-1 and all his victories have come against Detroit.

Once again big Joe Adcock provided the punch at the plate. This time he got help from utility infielder Mike de la Hoz. Both homered.

The Tigers nipped Latman for two runs in the first and two more in the third. Up to that point the game had a familiar pattern for the Tribe—light hitting and ineffective pitching.

Cleveland broke into the scoring in the fourth as Adcock slammed his sixth homer of the season into the left field stands with the bases empty.

Trailing 4-1, the Indians waited until the seventh to tame the Tigers. They did it with a five-run uprising that featured de la Hoz's two-run pinch homer.

Chambermen Dwell On Varied Agenda

A varied agenda was on tap when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce officers and directors met yesterday for a noon luncheon meeting at Boyer's Restaurant.

Discussion ranged from ordinances governing going out of business liquidation sales and soliciting to ideas on bringing a theater to Circleville. Comments included reports on a July membership breakfast meeting and the Sidewalk Sale scheduled July 18.

Nat Lefko, reporting for the Retail Merchants Division, noted that several new ideas have been injected as special attractions for the Sidewalk Sale, successfully initiated here last year. A square dance, musical entertainment, a special project by the local Art League and other features are contemplated for the July 18 event.

The breakfast meeting, under the chairmanship of Dan Crabtree is tentatively set for July 11. The exact time and place will be announced.

DIRECTORS were told that legislation is being drawn concerning control of liquidation sales in Circleville. City Council expressed favor toward such a law several weeks ago and authorized preparation of a proper ordinance.

An ordinance proposal designed to place limitations on soliciting already has come before Council's attention. A control measure enacted here several years ago was declared unconstitutional several weeks ago in Circleville Municipal Court. Chamber officials have leaned toward a new ordinance which could be legally enforced.

The discussion on the need for a theater in Circleville, which has cropped up repeatedly, was ignited when several directors told of numerous complaints registered by local residents who feel the city should have a movie house. President David Yates said the Chamber will welcome any suggestions that might lead to a remedy of the situation.

The need for an industrial brochure was advanced by Donald Colegrove of the Industrial Relations Committee. He said an ideal pamphlet would be one that merely lists prospective industrial sites in the city and county rather than a publication over loaded with facts and figures.

Colegrove explained that such a brochure would be of vital help to industrial firms interested in locating here and would create interest. His suggestion, favorably received by President Yates and directors present, is scheduled for additional study.

Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Chamber secretary, announced that Boyer's Restaurant and the Automatic Refreshment Service became new Chamber members this month.

Harsha Renews Flood Control Fund Effort

Rep. William H. Harsha, Ohio Sixth District, announced today that he will testify before the Public Works Subcommittee on Appropriations on June 10 in an effort to obtain more than $58 million for development of the Ohio River and for flood control projects in his congressional district.

Included in the request would be funds for the proposed Deer Creek Reservoir in Pickaway County. Money for this project has been earmarked at $216,000.

Other flood control reservoir projects and amounts are: Big Darby Creek in Franklin County, $66,000; Paint Creek in Ross County, $150,000; East Fork in Clermont County, $125,000; Caesar Creek in Warren County, $125,000; White Oak Creek in Brown County, $12,500 to conclude the feasibility survey presently in progress.

Harsha said these projects will provide much needed flood control, water conservation and recreational facilities for all Ohioans. "In addition," the congressman stated, "I am recommending funds in the amount of $57,300,000 to continue orderly progress on the Corps of Engineers' program for replacement of obsolete and inadequate locks and dams on the main stream of the Ohio River."

Four Get Degrees From Capital U

Four students from the Circleville and Pickaway County area were members of Capital University's 102nd graduating class. The commencement was held Monday.

Receiving degrees from Harold L. Yochum, president of the university, were: Lowell Anderson, Kingston, Bachelor of Science in elementary education; Michael Jones, Laurelville, Bachelor of Science in pre-dentistry; John Troutman, 155 E. Union St., Bachelor of Science in business administration; and Carl Purcell, 156 W. Franklin St., Bachelor of Arts in psychology.

School Picnic Marred By Drowning of Boy

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Pupils in Township School were ready to go home after their picnic Tuesday at Hickory Hills Park.

Teachers made a headcount and discovered that 11-year-old Kenneth Lovett was missing. After a search, a lifeguard found the boy's body in a 7-foot-deep pond. Lovett, Portage County's first drowning victim of the season, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lovett of New Milford.

Ohio Big City Crime Tops Par

WASHINGTON (AP)—Serious crime in Ohio's eight major cities showed a greater increase for the first three months of 1963 than the national trend over last year's comparable quarter, the FBI reported today.

The Ohio metropolitan areas, in seven crime categories, were up 8.83 per cent over 1962 as compared with a national increase of 7 per cent.

Only Dayton and Youngstown showed a decrease from last year. Dayton with 31 fewer crimes and Youngstown 34. Columbus had a 17 per cent increase with 325 more crimes, but Akron rose over 20 per cent with 242 more offenses than last year.

The Capital City's big increase came in the burglary or breaking and entering category, up from 809 to 1,058; larceny of $50 or more, up from 454 to 526, and forcible rape, up from 5 to 19. The other seven cities had a total of only 41 forcible rapes.

The 1962 first quarter showed 9,184 crimes in the eight cities, as compared with 9,954 this year. By cities, the FBI reported the crime totals as:

	1962	1963	change
Akron	1056	1298	up 242
Cincinnati	1190	1220	up 30
Canton	272	318	up 46
Dayton	1018	987	down 31
Columbus	1902	2227	up 325
Cleveland	2259	2398	up 139
Youngstown	503	469	down 34
Toledo	984	1037	up 53

The FBI stressed that the offenses are only those known to the police, from January through March of each year. Offenses included murder and non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary or breaking and entering, larceny

Solons OK Storage Building; Disposal Permit Is Received

Permission to erect a storage building on city land was granted last night to Circleville Pumpkin Show, Inc., by City Council.

The proposed building, estimated at 20 by 50 feet, will be located on a section of ground immediately to the rear of the Circleville Fire Department. It will be constructed on a slab formerly enclosed by an old city storage structure.

The old building was torn down several months ago. Ned Harden, representing the Pumpkin Show Committee, said the site would offer an ideal central location for property that must be stored each year between shows.

Some of the Pumpkin Show property was stored in the old building until it was demolished. Harden said since then the gear has been housed at various locations, making it difficult to maintain proper control.

PERMISSION to build was granted on a motion by Dr. Robert Smith. Harden said the building, to be of fireproof construction, will be erected at no cost to the city. He suggested a lease arrangement be made after construction is completed.

The discussion almost reached a stalemate when Solicitor Kenneth Robbins reminded that the city has no authority to enter into rental agreements. However, the motion to allow the building was carried on a 6-0 vote.

In other business, the lawmakers learned that the city's application for a renewal permit to dump sewage into the Scioto River has been granted by the Ohio Department of Health and the State Board of Water Pollution Control. A communication from the state body emphasized that future permission will be contingent on the city's effort to improve its present disposal facilities. The present permit extends to May 25, 1964.

Council already has approved legislation calling for preparation of plans for a new disposal plant. The move also has been sanctioned by the local Board of Public Utilities.

A proposal by a Columbus firm to build a new plant here at no cost to the city was submitted to Council at the May 21 meeting. The offer provided that the city would use a new treatment process supposedly established by the firm, on a rate basis similar to the one now utilized here.

Council, at the time of the proposal, favored making an extensive study of the offer before taking any action. The proposal, presented by the American Sewage Co., was not discussed last night.

Officials of the Columbus firm were scheduled to meet this week with Ervin Leist, public utilities manager, for further discussion on the offer. Leist was out of the city the night the original proposal was made.

ADDITIONAL discussion included an inquiry by Dr. Robert Smith concerning letters that were to be sent to property owners relative to construction of curbs and gutters at specified areas. He was told the communications are being prepared for immediate delivery.

Councilmen Boyd Horn commented on several old trees along city sidewalks that should be taken down in view of the hazards they present. He also complained of poor drainage in the Starkey Drive area.

Horn said the city should provide tile to correct the drainage problem. However, he was informed that Starkey Drive is not a dedicated city street.

Chambermen Dwell On Varied Agenda

A varied agenda was on tap when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce officers and directors met yesterday for a noon luncheon meeting at Boyer's Restaurant.

Discussion ranged from ordinances governing going out of business liquidation sales and soliciting to ideas on bringing a theater to Circleville. Comments included reports on a July membership breakfast meeting and the Sidewalk Sale scheduled July 18.

Nat Lefko, reporting for the Retail Merchants Division, noted that several new ideas have been injected as special attractions for the Sidewalk Sale, successfully initiated here last year. A square dance, musical entertainment, a special project by the local Art League and other features are contemplated for the July 18 event.

The breakfast meeting, under the chairmanship of Dan Crabtree is tentatively set for July 11. The exact time and place will be announced.

DIRECTORS were told that legislation is being drawn concerning control of liquidation sales in Circleville. City Council expressed favor toward such a law several weeks ago and authorized preparation of a proper ordinance.

An ordinance proposal designed to place limitations on soliciting

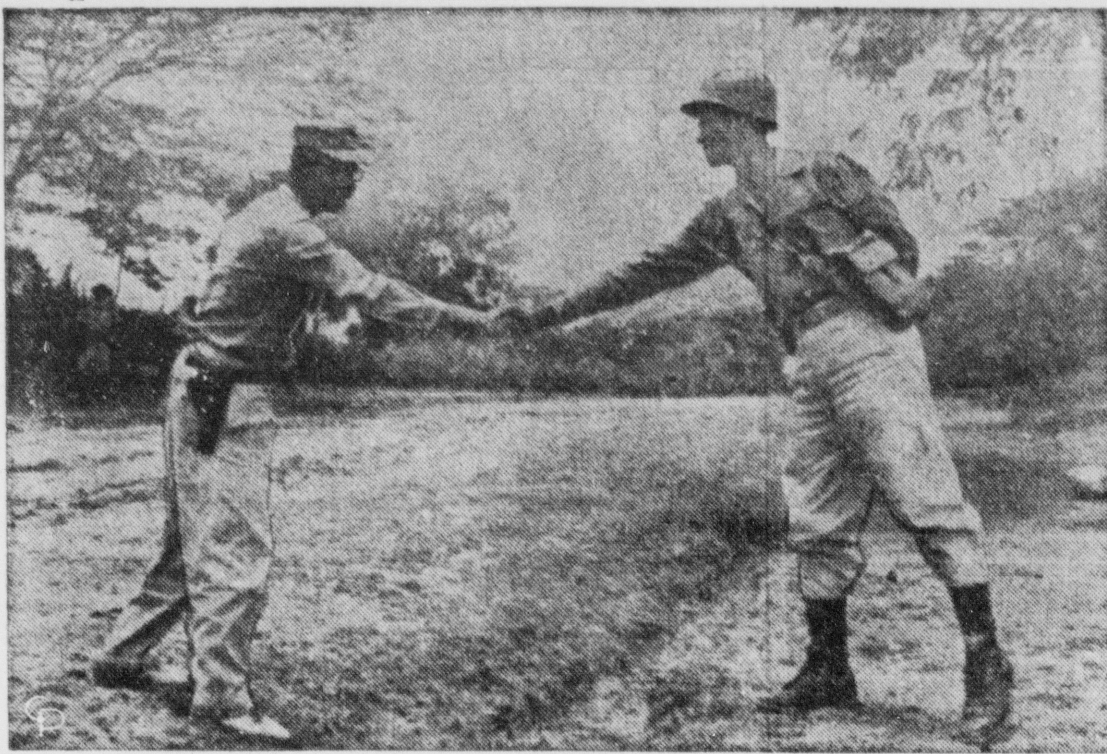

already has come before Council's attention. A control measure enacted here several years ago was declared unconstitutional several weeks ago in Circleville Municipal Court. Chamber officials have leaned toward a new ordinance which could be legally enforced.

The discussion on the need for a theater in Circleville, which has cropped up repeatedly, was ignited when several directors told of numerous complaints registered by local residents who feel the city should have a movie house. President David Yates said the Chamber will welcome any suggestions that might lead to a remedy of the situation.

The need for an industrial brochure was advanced by Donald Colegrove of the Industrial Relations Committee. He said an ideal pamphlet would be one that merely lists prospective industrial sites in the city and county rather than a publication over loaded with facts and figures.

Colegrove explained that such a brochure would be of vital help to industrial firms interested in locating here and would create interest. His suggestion, favorably received by President Yates and directors present, is scheduled for additional study.

Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Chamber secretary, announced that Boyer's Restaurant and the Automatic Refreshment Service became new Chamber members this month.

Harsha Renews Flood Control Fund Effort

Rep. William H. Harsha, Ohio Sixth District, announced today that he will testify before the Public Works Subcommittee on Appropriations on June 10 in an effort to obtain more than $58 million for development of the Ohio River and for flood control projects in his congressional district.

Included in the request would be funds for the proposed Deer Creek Reservoir in Pickaway County. Money for this project has been earmarked at $216,000.

Other flood control reservoir projects and amounts are: Big Darby Creek in Franklin County, 266,000; Paint Creek in Ross County, $150,000; East Fork in Clermont County, 125,000; Caesar Creek in Warren County, $125,000; White Oak Creek in Brown County, $125,000 to conclude the feasibility survey presently in progress.

Harsha said these projects will provide much needed flood control, water conservation and recreational facilities for all Ohioans. "In addition," the congressman stated, "I am recommending funds in the amount of $57,300,000 to continue orderly progress on the Corps of Engineers program for replacement of obsolete and inadequate locks and dams on the main stream of the Ohio River."

Four Get Degrees From Capital U

Yochum, president of the university, were: Lowell Anderson, Kingston, Bachelor of Science in elementary education; Michael Jones, Laurelville, Bachelor of Science in pre-dentistry; John Troutman, 155 E. School Picnic Marred By Drowning of Boy

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Pupils in Township School were ready to go home after their picnic Tuesday at Hickory Hills Park.

Teachers made a headcount and discovered that 11-year-old Kenneth Lovett was missing. After a search, a lifeguard found the boy's body in a 7-foot-deep pond. Lovett, Portage County's first drowning victim of the season, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lovett of New Milford.

Ohio Big City Crime Tops Par

WASHINGTON (AP)—Serious crime in Ohio's eight major cities showed a greater increase for the first three months of 1963 than the national trend over last year's comparable quarter, the FBI reported today.

The Ohio metropolitan areas, in seven crime categories, were up 8.83 per cent over 1962 as compared with a national increase of 7 per cent.

Only Dayton and Youngstown showed a decrease from last year. Dayton with 31 fewer crimes and Youngstown 34. Columbus had a 17 per cent increase with 325 more crimes, but Akron rose over 20 per cent with 242 more offenses than last year.

The Capital City's big increase came in the burglary or breaking and entering category, up from 809 to 1,058; larceny of $50 or more, up from 454 to 526, and forcible rape, up from 5 to 19. The other seven cities had a total of only 41 forcible rapes.

The 1962 first quarter showed 9,184 crimes in the eight cities, as compared with 9,954 this year. By cities, the FBI reported the crime totals as:

	1962	1963	change
Acron	1056	1298	up 242
Cincinnati	1190	1220	up 30
Canton	272	318	up 46
Dayton	1018	987	down 31
Columbus	1902	2227	up 325
Cleveland	2259	2398	up 139
Youngstown	503	469	down 34
Toledo	984	1037	up 53

The FBI stressed that the offenses are only those known to the police, from January through March of each year. Offenses included murder and non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary or breaking and entering, larceny

Solons OK Storage Building; Disposal Permit Is Received

Permission to erect a storage building on city land was granted last night to Circleville Pumpkin Show, Inc., by City Council.

The proposed building, estimated at 20 by 50 feet, will be located on a section of ground immediately to the rear of the Circleville Fire Department. It will be constructed on a slab formerly enclosed by an old city storage structure.

The old building was torn down several months ago. Ned Harden, representing the Pumpkin Show Committee, said the site would offer an ideal central location for property that must be stored each year between shows.

Some of the Pumpkin Show property was stored in the old building until it was demolished. Harden said since then the gear has been housed at various locations, making it difficult to maintain proper control.

PERMISSION to build was granted on a motion by Dr. Robert Smith. Harden said the building, to be of fireproof construction, will be erected at no cost to the city. He suggested a lease arrangement be made after construction is completed.

The discussion almost reached a stalemate when Solicitor Kenneth Robbins reminded that the city has no authority to enter into rental agreements. However, the motion to allow the building was carried on a 6-0 vote.

In other business, the lawmakers learned that the city's application for a renewal permit to dump sewage into the Scioto River has been granted by the Ohio Department of Health and the State Board of Water Pollution Control. A communication from the state body emphasized that future permission will be contingent on the city's effort to improve its present disposal facilities. The present permit extends to May 25, 1964.

Council already has approved legislation calling for preparation of plans for a new disposal plant. The move also has been sanctioned by the local Board of Public Utilities.
